One of the nation's major post- labor disputes appeared head- for a showdown today as the ntry's biggest union and largest omotive corporation, on the of a strike vote involving re than 300,000 workers, rred on the wage-hour issue.

The fight between the CIO's ited Automobile Workers union General Motors Corp. in De- it highlighted the nation's labor ubles. How- r, the labor picture in Detroit s dark.

The CIO UAW, after rejecting General Motors Corp. official's oposal for a 43-hour work week, rged the company with giving tice of a "sit-down strike" ainst the government's wage- ising policy. The union asked it congress be informed of the mpany's attitude in its wage pute.

Expect Strike

The company, in letters to rkers, let it be known it antici- ted approval of a strike in to- rrow's vote, which follows the AW petition in support of its 30 r cent wage increase demand. General Motors Vice President E. Wilson last week, suggested 43-hour work week with a five eight per cent increase in ages, with overtime after 45 urs.

The company said, in rejecting e union's wage demands, there uld be no boost in wages with- it a corresponding increase in r prices or an adjustment to age stabilization policy.

Wilson's proposal was termed a hony bribe" by Union Presi- nt R. J. Thomas, and he and ice President Walter P. Reuther clared adoption of a 43-hour eek would mean scrapping of e Wages and Hours act and a urrender of basic labor stand- rds."

DEATH CLAIMS DR. J. G. SEITER

Former Mayor and Practiced Medicine Here from 1889 Until Retirement.

Death claimed Dr. J. G. Seiter, 93, one of Marion's oldest physicians and a former mayor, at 1:10 p. m. today at his home at 383 South Main street. He had been ill several months. His death occurred in the home in which he has resided for more than 30 years and which is one of the oldest residences in the city, formerly owned by Dr. Seiter's uncle, Samuel Seiter, one of the city's pioneer business men.

Born Sept. 11, 1852 in Richland township, he had lived practically his entire life in Marion county. His parents, Daniel Seiter and Margaret Klingel Seiter, pioneer residents of the county, were natives of Germany. His marriage to Miss Emma Albrecht took place on his birth date 62 years ago. She survives with four children, Homer Seiter of Galion, Frank Seiter of Lima, Mrs. J. E. Oliphant of 402 Mt. Vernon avenue and Miss Margaret Seiter, a member of the teaching staff at the Pearl Street school, at home. Four grandchildren and one brother, Daniel Seiter of Richland township, also survive.

Dr. Seiter's grandparents were among the early settlers of Richland township and the family homestead was established five miles southeast of the city on what is now the Richland pike. It was on land donated by Dr. Seiter's father that the Zion Methodist church, the first German Methodist church in the community, was built. Prior to the erection of the church services were held in the Seiter home, the minister coming overland from Cincinnati on horseback.

Dr. Seiter was a member of the Prospect Street Methodist church.

He was graduated from Berea college and from the Cleveland Homeopathic Hospital college in Cleveland in 1881. He began his practice of medicine at Spencerville and in 1885 went to Clarington where he practiced until coming to Marion in 1889. He retired from active practice more than 10 years ago.

His term as mayor of the city was from 1910 to 1912.

THEATER TO INSTALL LATEST EQUIPMENT

Marion To Get New Screen, Sound and Projection Devices.

The Marion theater will be closed all day tomorrow for installation of a new screen, sound and projection equipment, George Planck, manager, reported today.

The sound equipment is manufactured by R. C. A. and is being installed under the supervision of RCA engineers from Cleveland. Mr. Planck said the new equipment will give full range to the recordings and will make musical notes especially clear.

The projectors are Brenkert equipment and meet high government standards. They have been used extensively at sea for motion pictures on ships and project a clear and steady picture. Installation of new lenses at the same time will permit more light and a sharper focus. The replacement of the old screen with a new one will complete the improvements planned.

The work, Mr. Planck said, will start at midnight tonight after the last show and will be completed before the matinee Thursday.

2 Navy Rescue Planes Leave Corregidor But One Flies Into Trouble

(Today in his "This Is My Story" General Wainwright tells about the evacuation of some American nurses, officers and civilians from Corregidor.)

Installment No. 17

IN THE MIDST of tremendous shelling on April 29—stepped up in honor of Hirohito's birthday, the Jap radio said—I got word that the Navy rescue planes had reached Lake Lanao and would fly up to Corregidor that night.

I got in touch immediately with Capt. Kenneth Hoeffel, U. S. N., the senior naval officer on Corregidor, and with him, chose the water between Corregidor and Fort Hughes, on Cabalo Island, as the most sheltered landing place for the rescue planes.

At dark, Capt. Hoeffel directed the minesweepers Quail and Tangier to sweep the mines from the water strip, and sank and lighted two buoys to guide the approaching aircraft.

Just after dark they came, like the messengers from another world, which they were. They came in low to make difficult targets of themselves.

50 Aboard, Including 30 Nurses

Working as fast as possible, we put 50 men and women in the two planes; 30 nurses—I left the choosing of them up to Col. Cooper, my surgeon—and 20 others.

Among those 20 were a Mrs. Bewley and her daughter, Virginia, two fine American women. Mrs. Bewley's husband was a Manila doctor who chose to remain behind with his patients rather than desert them when the Japs moved into the city.

There was also a Naval officer's wife who somehow had remained behind despite the ruling of the previous Spring that all dependents of military personnel must leave. And Mrs. Seals, wife of Brig. Gen. Carl Seals. Mrs. Seals was suffering too badly from arthritis to be moved out the previous May.

Especially asked for by MacArthur was Col. Stewart Wood, a well-trained staff officer who was my assistant chief of staff for intelligence and who had a fine knowledge of Japanese. MacArthur also asked for, and got, several cryptographers. With them I sent half a dozen officers ranging from brigadier generals to lieutenant colonels, who were in no physical condition to take captivity.

General Gets Kiss of Gratitude

I helped many of them into the little boats that carried them from the Corregidor dock to the nearby planes, and bade each of them goodbye. It was hard on all of us who helped with the loading, for we all knew instinctively that if the planes got away it would be the last time we ourselves would ever see them.

One of the last to get in was Lt. Juanita Redmond, a fine and beautiful girl from South Carolina. She did a nice thing. She put her arms around me and kissed me.

"Oh, thank you, General," she cried.

We stood there and watched the two seaplanes

Gophers Polish Versatile Attack for State Battle

Smooth Passing Plus Confusing Backfield Tactics May Trouble Buckeyes Saturday.

By The Associated Press

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 23—Add a smooth passing attack and confusing backfield tactics to a hard running and smash clocking Minnesota football team, and what have you? This year's Gopher team.

Just to make it tougher for Ohio State Saturday and for other future opponents, Coach Bernie Bierman has trained every man in his backfield to toss or catch forward or lateral passes with equal ease. Even Fullback Vic Kulbitski, the mainstay of the power attack, is likely to pop a short pass over the line.

Bierman also shifts positions of backfield men so often it is hard to tell who is playing what position.

Merlin Kispert, considered chiefly a quarterback during his previous two years of service, also shows up occasionally at right half, where he did a right smart job last Saturday against Northwestern. Tommy Cates plays either at right or left half, and so does Wayne "Red" Williams. Hudson 'Hockey' Mealey helps Kulbitski at fullback and is no mean passer.

On the receiving ends of most of the passes are ends Judd Ringer, recently returned from military service, and Bob Carley, a deaf boy who gets his signals by reading the quarterback's lips.

Right now Bierman's chief headache is the fashioning of a defense capable of handling the passing game of Paul Sarringhaus and Dick Fisher of Ohio State. The Minnesota pass defense has been spotty.

State Cutting Out Strenuous Scrimmage

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 23—Coach Carroll Widdoes has indicated he will not have the Ohio State team go through strenuous scrimmages in preparation for the Minnesota game at Minneapolis Saturday.

Widdoes, who added there would be no major lineup changes despite the 35-13 setback by Purdue last Saturday, had the squad on the field for only seven minutes yesterday. Then they went in for a 45-minute skull session where pictures of the game were shown.

Ohio, which was sunk by the accurate passing arm of Purdue's Bob DeMoss, must have three accurate passers, says Scout Ernie Godfrey, assistant coach. He said the halfbacks and fullback all share the passing duties.

The Buckeyes' travel schedule eliminates the usual Thursday session.

Paul Sarringhaus reportedly is in top shape again after injuring his shoulder. Dick Fisher, however, reinjured his leg and may be on the sidelines.

Miami Plays Miami In "Confusion Bowl" Tilt

By The Associated Press

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 23 — Miami plays Miami in the Orange Bowl stadium at Miami Friday night—and the boys are calling it the "Confusion Bowl Classic."

One team is the University of Miami at Miami, Fla. The other is Miami university of Oxford, Ohio.

Wilbert Bach, announcer for the game, fears the worst.

However, says Bach:

"I can't make a mistake if I say Miami has the ball."

STATE NOW 12TH IN AP FOOTBALL POLL

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 23 — The 35-13 shellacking Purdue handed Ohio State Saturday dropped the Buckeyes clear out of the first ten and boosted the Boilermakers into fourth place behind Army, Notre Dame and Navy in The Associated Press' weekly collegiate football ratings poll.

Carrol Widdoes' saddened gridders sank all the way to 12th while Cecil Isbell's unheralded eleven was elevated from its ninth position of last week.

Navy's 20-6 squeak over Georgia Tech shunted the Middies from second to third while Notre Dame's Ramblers, who battered Pittsburgh 39-9, moved into the contenders' spot behind Army.

Grand Jury Gets Assault Charges Against MacPhail

By The Associated Press

BEL AIR, Md., Oct. 23—President Larry MacPhail of the New York Yankees waived preliminary hearing yesterday on two assault charges and one of disorderly conduct and was ordered bound over to the November grand jury by Trial Magistrate Stanley S. Spencer.

MacPhail, whose arrest on the three warrants followed an Oct. 5 disturbance in the Bel Air telephone exchange over his inability to place a long distance call from his showplace stockfarm near Bel Air, furnished the same bond of $550 pending grand jury action. A nationwide four-hour work stoppage of telephone employes occurred that afternoon.

The baseball official's case was designated by the magistrate for grand jury consideration on Nov. 12.

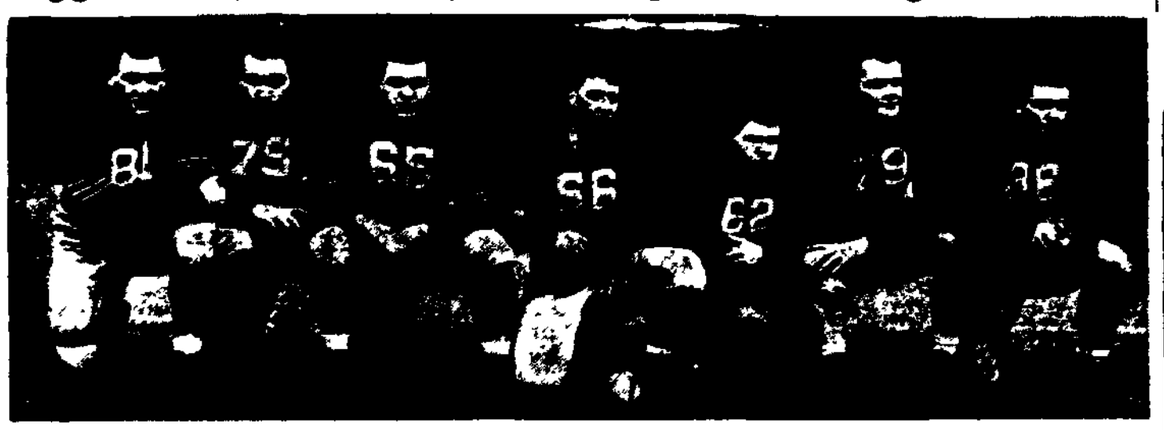
Oberlin Star Still Paces Gird Scoring

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 23 — Jim Boswell, Oberlin's star back, left a national high scoring mark of 66 points for the rest of the collegiate football aces to shoot at as the little Ohio college completed its eight game campaign unbeaten.

Boswell has set up a highly vulnerable target. While he was held scoreless in Oberlin's 25-7 victory over Baldwin-Wallace Saturday, Walter Trojanowski of Connecticut and Linwood Sexton of Wichita advanced within two touchdowns of Boswell's total with 54 points each.

Rugged Army Line Sample of Rough Era Coming in Football



By CHIP ROYAL
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

WEST POINT, N. Y.—The war has shown the value of physically developed bodies and, according to most football coaches, the boys coming back from the battlefields to the gridirons won't think of saying "excuse me" when they belt the opposition.

Take it from mentors like Columbia's Lou Little, "football is in for its roughest and most aggressive era when the veterans start holding the line and carrying the ball."

Maybe it would be a good idea for all the country's coaches to come up here on the Hudson and watch Army's football bosses in action. They know how to get a fellow in shape—and keep him there.

Col Earl (Red) Blaik has some very able assistants in Herman Hickman and Maj. George Woodruff, who handle the line; Pfc. Stuart K. Holcomb, the coach who makes the ends; and Andy Gustafson, who assists with the backs.

Of course it is nothing new for Army to have a hard charging and rough eleven. Any player who has ever been on an opposing team will tell you the Cadets have always been that way.

But this year, they're even more so. The black, gold and gray squad turned to the gridiron after some of the toughest summer maneuvers the Corps has ever known. Blaik and his staff took over where the training officers left off.

Hickman and Woodruff gathered the linemen together on an old field and lined them up as opponents. Then the boys took turns throwing their bodies at each other, locking shoulders and lunging tackles until they were almost ready to drop.

Gustafson ran the backs and kickers ragged. Holcomb had the ends crying for mercy with a combination of tactics used on the line and backfield.

The Army footballers were in top shape for the opening game and have been ever since. But, just let one fellow let down on his aggressiveness, and one of Blaik's aides will have him out on the practice field doing the conditioning all over again.

Just take a look at that Army line in the picture above. Did you ever see a hardier looking seven? No wonder coaches are calling them the best ever to wear the West Point uniform. They average 210 pounds, and they're all masters of the bumps. They are, left to right,

Hank Foldberg is a Plebe measuring 6-1. He was a four-letter man in high school.

Al Nemetz is a first classman measuring 6'. Hickman calls the Virginian "a flawless tackle."

Al Gerometta is 5-10 and a Plebe. He won a football letter at the University of Illinois before coming to the Point.

James Enos, better known as "The Bear," is 6-1. He gained a lot of his muscles while working as a timberman and won his "A" as a Plebe.

Jack Green, team captain, is another senior, 5-8½, and won All-America honorable mention last year.

"Tex" Coulter, 6-3, potentially the finest tackle in football today, is also a great shot putter, and plenty rough.

Dick Pitzer, a first classman, is 6-1, started as a center but won his spurs as an end in the 1944 Notre Dame game.

FOUR-HOUR FOOTBALL GAME FEATURES OHIO HIGH SCHOOL SCENE

Youngstown Lights Go Out Almost Two Hours; Other Tilts Are Normal.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 23—Something new has been added to Ohio high school football—it's a game that lasted four hours.

The marathon engagement came about as Youngstown Ursuline licked Youngstown South, 13 to 0, for its sixth straight victory. A fan dropped an umbrella on a lead wire. That caused a short circuit and the lights went out.

It took an hour and 57 minutes to repair the damage so the game could be resumed. Those of the 15,000 fans who stuck it out, sat through a rain to await resumption of hostilities.

Others Were Normal

Except for that weird one, the week-end's gridiron activity ran remarkably according to Hoyle. Five teams were beaten for the first time but three of them took their lickings from other outfits having perfect records. They were Cincinnati Elder, trimmed by Cincinnati Purcell, 14 to 6, Wapakoneta, beaten by Van Wert, 21 to 6, and Tiffin Calvert, thumped by Upper Sandusky, 31 to 6.

The others knocked from the unbeaten list were Canton Township and Granville. Granville's 13 to 7 beating by Pataskala broke an 18-game winning streak.

Probably the biggest shots of the week-end were fired by Newark, Toledo Waite, Cincinnati Purcell and Cleveland Cathedral Latin.

Newark went to Louisville to take on a Male High school team that hadn't lost a game and the final count was Newark 20, Male 13. It was the sixth straight triumph this season for the Wildcats and gave them a record of 22 games won as against one lost and one tied in the last three seasons.

Waite Has It Easy

Toledo Waite used its regulars for only slightly more than one period as it romped over Toledo Woodward, 21 to 0. There had been some reports that Cleveland Holy Name might pull an upset against Cleveland Latin, last year's unofficial state champs, but Latin can report those reports were wholly unfounded. It was a 13 to 0 decision for the champions.

Otherwise, the unbeaten and untied list reads something like this:

Dayton Chaminade, Martins Ferry, Ironton, Reading, Troy, Piqua, Van Wert, Elida, Upper Sandusky, Minerva, Lowellville, Youngstown Ursuline, Tallmadge, Copley, and Crooksville.

Elida hasn't been scored on yet this season.

Massillon also caused a new stir of excitement in the Buckeye ranks.

Massillon all but blew Mansfield out of the park in a 40 to 6 triumph. Mansfield had been beaten only once previously this season. The game also was the 14th straight between the Tigers and Tygers without a Mansfield triumph. Bert Webb of Masillon scored two touchdowns and passed for two others.

Russians May Soon Be Forced To Show Hand in Athletics

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 23—Russia in the realm of athletics, at least, soon may be forced to show its postwar hand.

Even while preparations are underway for resumption of the Olympic games in 1948, attention of the International Amateur athletic federation is focused on Russia, which severed formal sports relations with the rest of the world after the 1912 Olympics.

Avery Brundage, president of the United States Olympic committee and vice president of the International Olympic group, declared today the I.A.A.F. "extended the hand of friendship" to Russia through an "unprecedented" invitation to membership.

He said any nation previously had to apply for membership.

Brundage, who attended the Stockholm meeting after conferring with the International Olympic executive committee in London last August, said Russia has developed a huge sports program, but has shown no inclination to display it before the world.

"Russia is an extremely proud nation and may decline to appear in international competition without confidence of victory. Secretly, such competition means fraternization with athletes of other nations, something Russia generally has not permitted," he said.

Marion Co. Horse Sets World's Record

Little Jack, owned by Jack Seiter of near Meeker, last Saturday at Northville Downs, Mich., set a new world's record for pacers in a mile and a half race on a half mile track.

The Marion county-owned horse made the three laps of the track in 3:15.

Foy Funderberg of Springfield, Ill., was on the sulky behind Little Jack when the record was made. There were eight entries in the one-heat race.

The previous record was set in 1940 by Flagstaff at 3:19.

The mile and a half record on a mile track was set in 1937 by Little Pat.

Americans spent more than $700,000,000 at the drycleaners in 1944.

WALKER SEEKS RELEASE

By The Associated Press

ORLANDO, Fla., Oct. 23—Gerald "Gee-Gee" Walker, outfielder for the Cincinnati Reds since 1942, says he has applied for his unconditional release. Gee-Gee said yesterday he would seek a position with some other club if the Reds give him a release.

Rams Set for Galion Invasion

Unbeaten Upper Sandusky Still Paces Northern Ohio League; Bucyrus Goes to Shelby.

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, O., Oct. 23—The leaders of the Northern Ohio league, the unbeaten and untied Upper Sandusky School Rams, will travel to Galion this week, playing there under the lights on Thursday night.

Both Galion and Upper played non-league opponents last week, Galion taking Marion St. Mary 13 to 0, and the Rams winning 31 to 6, over the previously undefeated Tiffin Calvert. Calvert won over St. Mary, 14 to 0, earlier in the season.

The Upper team has now checked 10 straight times in the win column, including the final four games of last season. The victories this year have been scored over Richwood, Bucyrus, Ada, Crestline, Bellevue and Tiffin Calvert.

265 to 34 Score

Their total score is now 265 to 34 marked up by the combined attempts of their opponents. The only weak spot in this otherwise well balance and highly successful team is shown by the fact that but two points have been made by kicking the goal after touchdown. They have scored 26 "points after" in 40 trys, but of the good trys, 20 were made by passing and four by rushing.

Other games in the Northern Ohio League the past week saw the second place Norwalk team upset 6 to 0, by the last division team from Willard; Bellevue won 19 to 6 over Shelby; and Crestline took the favored Bucyrus Redmen.

Following Upper Sandusky and Norwalk in the league standing now are Galion and Bellevue, tied for third and fourth place; Shelby, fifth; Willard and Crestline, tied for the next spot, and Bucyrus, last.

Bucyrus at Shelby

Because Shelby public schools will close Friday so teachers can attend the annual conventions in Toledo or Cleveland, the Shelby Whippets will entertain Bucyrus Thursday night.

Shelby will be seeking its fourth win in seven games. The Redmen have won one game in seven starts.

The only grid game in this area on Friday night is at Mansfield, where Canton Timken meets the Tygers.

Ohio-Illinois Game Is Sell-out Already

The two away-from-home games, Oct. 27 with Minnesota and Nov. 24 with Michigan, also will be played before capacity houses, according to Ohio State's ticket officials.

Both Seek First Win of Junior High Season.

The second round of the current Junior High school football season will get underway Wednesday afternoon at the Harding stadium with Central mixing it up with Vernon. Edison holds down the lead with one victory and a tie, and Central has a record of two tie games in two attempts and Vernon is at the bottom of the heap with one loss and one tie game on their slate.

Both Central and Vernon will be out to try to gain their first victory of the season. The last time the two met they battled to a 7-7 draw. Due to the fact that the reserves have completed their season, the game is set to start at 3:30 p. m.

Pandora To Invade Forest on Thursday

Forest High will close the home football season at home Thursday afternoon when Pandora plays at 2:30. The game has been moved up to Thursday due to the district teachers' meeting at Toledo Friday.

Council Asked To Provide Funds for City Recreation

Resolution Requests Municipal Maintenance of Playground Program Formerly Financed by Community Foundation.

Responsibility for maintaining the work of the city recreation commission was laid at the doorstep of city council Monday night.

Council, at its regular meeting, was presented a resolution from the Marion Community Foundation, asking the city to raise the funds for the summer playground program which the Foundation has provided for the last two years

The resolution was presented by a committee from the Community Fund Foundation including E. J. Cleveland, Foundation president, Robert T Mason, A W Kette, and J. E Oliphant. Ellis Oiler, representing the Marion Industrial Union council (CIO) also was present to urge the city to take over the program. Mr Oiler is a member of the board of trustees of the Marion Community Foundation.

Mr. Mason, who also is chairman of the city recreation commission, presented the resolution He pointed out that the community Foundation had eliminated the recreation commission as one of its participating agencies due to the necessity of restricting the foundation's activities now that the wartime emergency is over

For the last two years the foundation has provided the recreation commission with approximately $5,000 a year The Foundation's resolution asked council to appropriate not less than this amount to carry on the work in the future. Mr Mason pointed out that the commission had never spent all funds available for the summer program

Accomplishments Cited

Mr. Kette, Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Oliphant pointed to the good work accomplished by the commission in the summer playground activities and urged that the program be continued Mr Cleveland declared that Marion has lagged behind many cities in providing recreational activities for its young people

Mr. Oiler declared that organized labor was greatly disappointed when the community Fund Foundation eliminated the recreation commission as a participating agency and strongly urged that council assume the responsibility for continuing the program He expressed the opinion that a recreation program was a vital function of municipal government.

W. G Slack, president of council, received the Foundation's resolution and referred it to the council finance committee. He expressed the opinion the city might have difficulty finding funds for the program but said no definite conclusion could be reached until the committee had completed its study of the proposal.

Zone Changes Asked

McDaniel, 497 Silver street; Stewart Construction Co Gill avenue and F. E. Williams, Patterson street. McDaniel and Williams plan to build grocery stores and the construction company intends to erect a storage building

A public hearing on the McDaniel petition was scheduled before the city planning commission for Nov 26 The Stewart Construction Co. petition was referred to the planning commission after a spokesman for residents in the neighborhood filed a petition in opposition to the project. The spokesman said most of the signers originally signed the company's petition approving the project but later changed their minds. The Williams petition was referred to City Solicitor Edwin B Spohn for preparation of legislation for presentation to the planning commission.

The city treasurer was authorized by council to enter into contracts with the National City bank and the Marion County bank to serve as depositories for active funds in amounts up to $125,000

City Auditor Elmer Shaw certified that the garbage fund held $15,000 in appropriated funds. Of this amount council appropriated $9,900 as follows: for payroll $9,500, and supplies $200 and for motor fuel $200.

JAP NEW DEAL SHAKES THRONE

Hirohito No. 1 Issue as Communists Oppose Demands of Conservative Group.

By The Associated Press

TOKYO, Oct. 23—The rocking emperor system, which has ruled the Japanese people for centuries, became Japan's number one political issue today as the once powerful family industrial monopolies crumbled under a "new deal."

A committee of 183 diet members, seeking to reform old line party elements, today called for "absolute and unqualified defense of tenno" (the emperor system)

At once the cabinet was called into another extraordinary session to discuss the dissolution of the Zaibatsu, (family owned industrial monopolies) announced yesterday

The diet committee asked for "a determined fight against communism and liberalism," while the new Japanese liberal party pledged to "uphold and defend Japan's unique national structure" —tennoism

Is Conservative Party

The diet committee, forming what probably will be a conservative party containing remnants of both the old line Seiuykai and Minseito, also called for a nation dedicated to peace and a government responsible to the diet.

This group is believed to have approached Prince Fumimaro Konoye, the nation's first postwar vice premier, to accept the presidency. He indicated he would decline.

The liberals advocated a diplomacy which would permit Japan to "join the United Nations organization at the earliest possible date" and supported proposed women's suffrage, increasing the power of the diet and guaranteeing the people's freedom.

The Communists announced a campaign to raise 200,000 yen (about $13,334) to assist released political prisoners and relatives of others who died in jails.

Would Oust Emperor

The Communist speakers have insisted on elimination of tennoism This unprecedented discussion of tennoism as a political issue apparently has heightened confusion among the public

Reliable sources say the Socialists' left wingers advocate elimination of the emperor but that other elements insist upon retaining the Mikado.

Konoye asserted the Mikado's highly touted divinity never had been a legal concept, but admitted constitutional revision on which he is working would rob Hirohito of some of his absolute powers

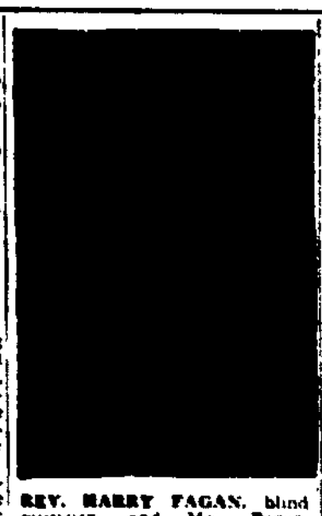
Tokyo's powerful newspaper Asahi almost attacked the monopoly liquidation announcement, declaring the dissolution plans of the once all-powerful Mitsui, Sumotomo and Mitsubishi corporations were but a screen behind which they sought to evade responsibility for the war and to protect giant profits.

Japan's education system came in for a radical change. MacArthur's headquarters ordered feudal militarism abolished from the school system and replaced with instruction in peace

Col. Ken Dyke, chief of civilian information and education in the American occupation headquarters announced Japanese textbooks had been checked and deletions recommended.

Five schools at Morioka suspended classes because of lack of food, the newspaper Asahi reported Pupils in primary grades have been put to work in the fields

American headquarters announced the famous American division will start home soon. The first group of officers and men will leave Nov. 3



REV. HARRY FAGAN, blind musician, and Mrs. Fagan, above, coming here from Riceville, Pa., will open a series of services at the Marion Gospel Center tonight at 8 It is their fifth series of meetings in Marion and they have prepared a group of new songs besides music on the piano, piano accordion and electric vibraphone to present, Rev W E Budgett, pastor, announced.

Kirkpatrick P.-T.A. Presents Program

KIRKPATRICK—A meeting of the P -T A was held at the school Friday night with Mrs Margaret Burris presiding The meeting opened with group singing led by Mrs. Carl Bailey. Devotions were conducted by Rev R F. Strickler Selections were sung by the 4, 5 and 6th grades, and piano solo was played by Norma Cleland Mrs Flossie Beers, in charge of the Girls 4-H club, gave a talk and presented ribbons and awards Movies were shown

Plans are being made and committees named for an all-community carnival at the school gymnasium on Nov. 2 which will include a movie, various side shows, refreshment booths and door prizes. Invitations are being sent to the other High schools of the county.

Ladies of the Whetstone community are preserving a play at the school gymnasium Friday night.

Open House Event Scheduled at High School on Oct. 29

Parents and Friends To Visit Classes in Observance of American Education Week.

In observance of American Education Week, "Open House" will be observed at Harding High school Monday night, Oct. 29

All parents and friends of the students are invited to visit the school where they may see what the boys and girls are doing in their classes The students will have a chance to show Harding High school at work This is the first time the school has been open to the public while classes are in session

Registration will be held from 7 to 7 30 p m and regular classes will then convene. The tardy bell will ring at 7 30 and all pupils will report directly to their second period class The usual classes for the second and third periods will be conducted, but with shorter periods, and the schedule will be that which is usually followed on Friday morning but omitting the fourth period.

After all students have reported to their second period classes, the first group will go to West Hall for the first assembly, and the second group will follow them later After both assemblies, all students will go to their third period class and will be dismissed following that period.

All visitors may attend the assembly and are free to visit any classes during the time they are there The idea of the "open house" is to acquaint the people of Marion with what goes on at Harding High school Because of the limited room, boys and girls of the Junior High schools will not be admitted, and younger children must be accompanied by their parents

On Monday morning school will convene as usual and will open with the first period Then students will go to periods 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8 with class periods shortened There will be no school in the afternoon

Members of the student council are making plans to take care of the registration and ushering of guests

The faculty committee for this event consists of Miss Margery Eymon, chairman, Miss Lucille Foreman, Miss Rauhauser, Mrs. Thelma Jacobs, R. C Dunlap, George Wilson and L H Risker

Gophers Polish Versatile Attack for State Battle

Smooth Passing Plus Confusing Backfield Tactics May Trouble Buckeyes Saturday.

By The Associated Press

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 23—Add a smooth passing attack and confusing backfield tactics to a hard running and smash blocking Minnesota football team, and what have you? This year's Gopher team.

Just to make it tougher for Ohio State Saturday and for other future opponents, Coach Bernie Bierman has trained every man in his backfield to toss or catch forward or lateral passes with equal ease. Even Fullback Vic Kulbitski, the mainstay of the power attack, is likely to pop a short pass over the line.

Bierman also shifts positions of backfield men so often it's hard to tell who's playing what position.

Merlin Kispert, considered chiefly a quarterback during his previous two years of service, also shows up occasionally at right half, where he did a right smart job last Saturday against Northwestern. Tommy Cates plays either at right or left half, and so does Wayne "Red" Williams. Hudson "Hockey" Mealey helps Kulbitski at fullback and is no mean passer.

On the receiving ends of most of the passes are ends Judd Ringer, recently returned from military service, and Bob Carley, a deaf boy who gets his signals by reading the quarterback's lips.

Right now Bierman's chief headache is the fashioning of a defense capable of handling the passing game of Paul Sarringhaus and Dick Fisher of Ohio State. The Minnesota pass defense has been spotty.

State Cutting Out Strenuous Scrimmage

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 23—Coach Carroll Widdoes has indicated he will not have the Ohio State team go through strenuous scrimmages in preparation for the Minnesota game at Minneapolis Saturday.

Widdoes, who added there would be no major lineup changes despite the 35-13 setback by Purdue last Saturday, had the squad on the field for only seven minutes yesterday. Then they went in for a 45-minute skull session where pictures of the game were shown.

Ohio, which was sunk by the accurate passing arm of Purdue's Bob DeMoss, must have three accurate passers, says Scout Ernie Godfrey, assistant coach. He said the halfbacks and fullback all share the passing duties.

The Buckeyes' travel schedule eliminates the usual Thursday session.

Paul Sarringhaus reportedly is in top shape again after injuring his shoulder. Dick Fisher, however, reinjured his leg and may be on the sidelines.

Miami Plays Miami In "Confusion Bowl" Tilt

By The Associated Press

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 23 — Miami plays Miami in the Orange Bowl stadium at Miami Friday night—and the boys are calling it the "Confusion Bowl Classic."

One team is the University of Miami at Miami, Fla. The other is Miami university of Oxford, Ohio.

Wilbert Bach, announcer for the game, fears the worst.

However, says Bach:

"I can't make a mistake if I say Miami has the ball."

STATE NOW 12TH IN AP FOOTBALL POLL

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 23 — The 35-13 shellacking Purdue handed Ohio State Saturday dropped the Buckeyes clear out of the first ten and boosted the Boilermakers into fourth place behind Army, Notre Dame and Navy in The Associated Press' weekly collegiate football ratings poll.

Carroll Widdoes' saddened gridders sank all the way to 12th while Cecil Isbell's unheralded eleven was elevated from its ninth position of last week.

Navy's 20-6 squeak over Georgia Tech shunted the Middies from second to third while Notre Dame's Ramblers, who battered Pittsburgh 39-9, moved into the contenders' spot behind Army.

Grand Jury Gets Assault Charges Against MacPhail

By The Associated Press

BEL AIR, Md., Oct. 23—President Larry MacPhail of the New York Yankees waived preliminary hearing yesterday on two assault charges and one of disorderly conduct and was ordered bound over to the November grand jury by Trial Magistrate Stanley S. Spencer.

MacPhail, whose arrest on the three warrants followed an Oct. 5 disturbance in the Bel Air telephone exchange over his inability to place a long distance call from his showplace stockfarm near Bel Air, furnished the same bond of $550 pending grand jury action. A nationwide four-hour work stoppage of telephone employes occurred that afternoon.

The baseball official's case was designated by the magistrate for grand jury consideration on Nov. 12.

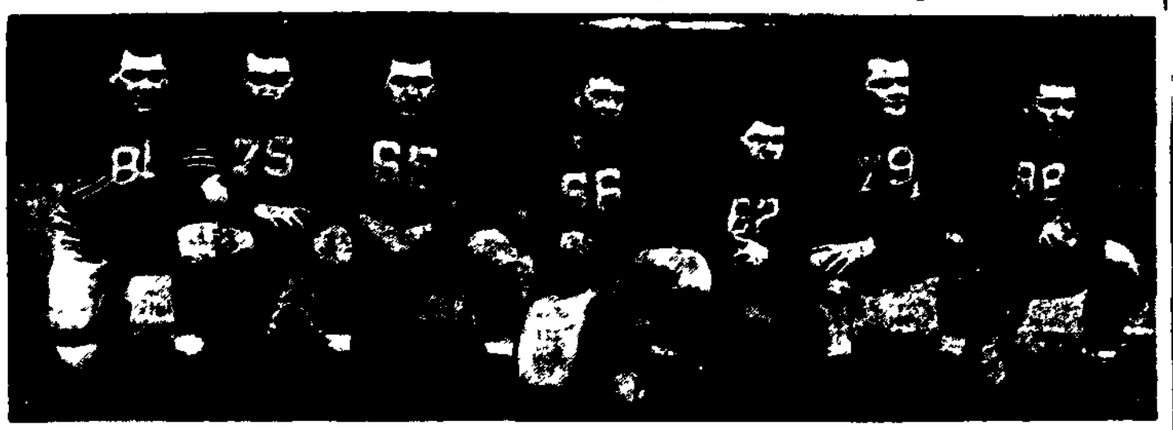
Oberlin Star Still Paces Gird Scoring

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 23 — Jim Boswell, Oberlin's star back, left a national high scoring mark of 66 points for the rest of the collegiate football aces to shoot at as the little Ohio college completed its eight game campaign unbeaten.

Boswell has set up a highly vulnerable target. While he was held scoreless in Oberlin's 25-7 victory over Baldwin-Wallace Saturday, Walter Trojanowski of Connecticut and Linwood Sexton of Wichita advanced within two touchdowns of Boswell's total with 54 points each.

Rugged Army Line Sample of Rough Era Coming in Football



By CHIP ROYAL
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

WEST POINT, N. Y.—The war has shown the value of physically developed bodies and, according to most football coaches, the boys coming back from the battlefields to the gridirons won't think of saying "excuse me" when they belt the opposition.

Take it from mentors like Columbia's Lou Little, "football is in for its roughest and most aggressive era when the veterans start holding the line and carrying the ball."

Maybe it would be a good idea for all the country's coaches to come up here on the Hudson and watch Army's football bosses in action. They know how to get a fellow in shape—and keep him there.

Col. Earl (Red) Blaik has some very able assistants in Herman Hickman and Maj. George Woodruff, who handle the line; Pfc. Stuart K. Holcomb, the coach who makes the ends; and Andy Gustafson, who assists with the backs.

Of course it is nothing new for Army to have a hard charging and rough eleven. Any player who has ever been on an opposing team will tell you the Cadets have always been that way.

But this year, they're even more so. The black, gold and gray squad turned to the gridiron after some of the toughest summer maneuvers the Corps has ever known. Blaik and his staff took over where the training officers left off.

Hickman and Woodruff gathered the linemen together on an old field and lined them up as opponents. Then the boys took turns throwing their bodies at each other, locking shoulders and lunging tackles until they were almost ready to drop.

Gustafson ran the backs and kickers ragged. Holcomb had the ends crying for mercy with a combination of tactics used on the line and backfield.

The Army footballers were in top shape for the opening game and have been ever since. But, just let one fellow let down on his aggressiveness, and one of Blaik's aides will have him out on the practice field doing the conditioning all over again.

Just take a look at that Army line in the picture above. Did you ever see a hardier looking seven? No wonder coaches are calling them the best ever to wear the West Point uniform. They average 210 pounds, and they're all masters of the bumps. They are, left to right.

Hank Foldberg is a Plebe measuring 6-1. He was a four-letter man in high school.

Al Nemetz is a first classman measuring 6'. Hickman calls the Virginian "a flawless tackle."

Al Gerometta is 5-10 and a Plebe. He won a football letter at the University of Illinois before coming to the Point.

James Enos, better known as "The Bear," is 6-1. He gained a lot of his muscles while working as a timberman and won his "A" as a Plebe.

Jack Green, team captain, is another senior, 5-8½, and won All-America honorable mention last year.

"Tex" Coulter, 6-3, potentially the finest tackle in football today, is also a great shot putter, and plenty rough.

Dick Pilser, a first classman, is 6-1, started as a center but won his spurs as an end in the 1944 Notre Dame game.

UPPER SANDUSKY, O., Oct. 23—The leaders of the Northern Ohio league, the unbeaten and untied Upper Sandusky School Rams, will travel to Galion this week, playing there under the lights on Thursday night.

Both Galion and Upper played non-league opponents last week, Galion taking Marion St. Mary 13 to 0, and the Rams winning 31 to 6, over the previously undefeated Tiffin Calvert. Calvert won over St. Mary, 14 to 0, earlier in the season.

The Upper team has now checked 10 straight times in the win column, including the final four games of last season. The victories this year have been scored over Richwood, Bucyrus, Ada, Crestline, Bellevue and Tiffin Calvert.

265 to 34 Score

Their total score is now 265 to 34 marked up by the combined attempts of their opponents. The only weak spot in this otherwise well balance and highly successful team is shown by the fact that but two points have been made by kicking the goal after touchdown. They have scored 26 "points after," in 40 trys, but of the good trys, 20 were made by passing and four by rushing.

Other games in the Northern Ohio League the past week saw the second place Norwalk team upset 6 to 0, by the last division team from Willard; Bellevue won 19 to 6 over Shelby; and Crestline took the favored Bucyrus Redmen.

Following Upper Sandusky and Norwalk in the league standing now are Galion and Bellevue, tied for third and fourth place; Shelby, fifth, Willard and Crestline, tied for the next spot, and Bucyrus, last.

Bucyrus at Shelby

Because Shelby public schools will close Friday so teachers can attend the annual conventions in Toledo or Cleveland, the Shelby Whippets will entertain Bucyrus Thursday night.

Shelby will be seeking its fourth win in seven games. The Redmen have won one game in seven starts.

The only grid game in this area on Friday night is at Mansfield, where Canton Timken meets the Tygers.

Ohio-Illinois Game Is Sell-out Already

Special to The Star

COLUMBUS, Oct. 23—Ticket supply for Ohio State university's homecoming football game Nov. 17 with Illinois is now exhausted. Last Saturday's game with Purdue also was a sell-out, and the "sold-out" sign for the November 3 Dads' day encounter with Northwestern will be up within a few days. The two away-from-home games, Oct. 27 with Minnesota and Nov. 24 with Michigan, also will be played before capacity houses, according to Ohio State's ticket officials.

Double Main Event on Wrestling Card

A double main event will feature the wrestling show Thursday at the armory. Both matches will be 90 minute affairs with the best two out of three falls to win.

The one main event will be Steve Nenoff and Johnny LaRue of Texas.

The other main event matches Ace Freeman of the Bronx and Red Dawson.

The program will open at 8:30 p. m.

WINS BY KNOCKOUT

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 23 — Gene Spencer, of Chicago knocked out Ernie Petrone of New York in the fifth round of a 10-round bout here last night. Spencer weighed 135, Petrone, 141.

CENTRAL AND VERNON TO PLAY TOMORROW

Both Seek First Win of Junior High Season.

The second round of the current Junior High school football season will get underway Wednesday afternoon at the Harding stadium with Central mixing it up with Vernon. Edison holds down the lead with one victory and a tie, and Central has a record of two tie games in two attempts and Vernon is at the bottom of the heap with one loss and one tie game on their slate.

Both Central and Vernon will be out to try to gain their first victory of the season. The last time the two met they battled to a 7-7 draw. Due to the fact that the reserves have completed their season, the game is set to start at 3:30 p. m.

Pandora To Invade Forest on Thursday

Forest High will close the home football season at home Thursday afternoon when Pandora plays at 2:30. The game has been moved up to Thursday due to the district teachers' meeting at Toledo Friday.

Pandora has a strong team this season so will extend Forest to the limit to get into the winning column again.

FOUR-HOUR FOOTBALL GAME FEATURES OHIO HIGH SCHOOL SCENE

Youngstown Lights Go Out Almost Two Hours; Other Tilts Are Normal.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 23—Something new has been added to Ohio high school football—it's a game that lasted four hours.

The marathon engagement came about as Youngstown Ursuline licked Youngstown South, 13 to 0, for its sixth straight victory. A fan dropped an umbrella on a lead wire. That caused a short circuit and the lights went out.

It took an hour and 57 minutes to repair the damage so the game could be resumed. Those of the 15,000 fans who stuck it out, sat through a rain to await resumption of hostilities.

Others Were Normal

Except for that weird one, the week-end's gridiron activity ran remarkably according to Hoyle. Five teams were beaten for the first time but three of them took their lickings from other outfits having perfect records. They were Cincinnati Elder, trimmed by Cincinnati Purcell, 14 to 6, Wapakoneta, beaten by Van Wert, 21 to 6, and Tiffin Calvert, thumped by Upper Sandusky, 31 to 6.

The others knocked from the unbeaten list were Canton Township and Granville. Granville's 13 to 7 beating by Pataskala broke an 18-game winning streak.

Probably the biggest shots of the week-end were fired by Newark, Toledo Waite, Cincinnati Purcell and Cleveland Cathedral Latin.

Newark went to Louisville to take on a Male High school team that hadn't lost a game and the final count was Newark 20, Male 13. It was the sixth straight triumph this season for the Wildcats and gave them a record of 22 games won as against one lost and one tied in the last three seasons.

Waite Has It Easy

Toledo Waite used its regulars for only slightly more than one period as it romped over Toledo Woodward, 21 to 0. There had been some reports that Cleveland Holy Name might pull an upset against Cleveland Lat.n, last year's unofficial state champs, but Latin can report those reports were wholly unfounded. It was a 13 to 0 decision for the champions.

Otherwise, the unbeaten and untied list reads something like this:

Dayton Chaminade, Martins Ferry, Ironton, Reading, Troy, Piqua, Van Wert, Elida, Upper Sandusky, Minerva, Lowellville, Youngstown Ursuline, Tallmadge, Copley, and Crooksville.

Elida hasn't been scored on yet this season.

Massillon also caused a new stir of excitement in the Buckeye ranks.

Massillon all but blew Mansfield out of the park in a 40 to 6 triumph. Mansfield had been beaten only once previously this season. The game also was the 14th straight between the Tigers and Tygers without a Mansfield triumph. Bert Webb of Masillon scored two touchdowns and passed for two others.

Russians May Soon Be Forced To Show Hand in Athletics

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 23—Russia in the realm of athletics, at least, soon may be forced to show its postwar hand.

Even while preparations are underway for resumption of the Olympic games in 1948, athletic officials of the International Amateur Athletic federation are focused on Russia, which severed formal sports relations with the rest of the world after the 1912 Olympics.

Avery Brundage, president of the United States Olympic committee and vice president of the International Olympic group, declared today the I.A.A.F. "extended the hand of friendship" to Russia through an "unprecedented" invitation to membership.

He said any nation previously had to apply for membership.

Brundage, who attended the Stockholm meeting after conferring with the International Olympic executive committee in London last August, said Russia has developed a huge sports program but has shown no inclination to display it before the world.

"Russia is an extremely proud nation and may decline to appear in international competition without confidence of victory. Secondly, such competition means fraternization with athletes of other nations, something Russia generally has not permitted," he said.

Marion Co. Horse Sets World's Record

Little Jack, owned by Jack Seiter of near Meeker, last Saturday at Northville Downs, Mich., set a new world's record for pacers in a mile and a half race on a half mile track.

The Marion county-owned horse made the three laps of the track in 3:15.

Foy Funderberg of Springfield, Ill., was on the sulky behind Little Jack when the record was made. There were eight entries in the one-heat race.

The previous record was set in 1940 by Flagstaff at 3:19.

The mile and a half record on a mile track was set in 1937 by Little Pat.

Americans spent more than $700,000,000 at the drycleaners in 1944.

Mary's won their first game ...e season, and did it the hard way by defeating one of the best teams in the league. Neither team reached pay dirt until the last quarter when Finnegan passed to Kilbury who ran the remaining 20 yards to score. In the last few minutes of the game with Oakland throwing passes trying to tie the score, Kilbury of the Irish intercepted a pass on his goal line and ran through the Oakland team only to be brought down by Brady of Oakland on the 10 yard line of Oakland as the game ended.

Council Asked To Provide Funds for City Recreation

Resolution Requests Municipal Maintenance of Playground Program Formerly Financed by Community Foundation.

Responsibility for maintaining the work of the city recreation commission was laid at the doorstep of city council Monday night.

Council, at its regular meeting, was presented a resolution from the Marion Community Foundation, asking the city to raise the funds for the summer playground program which the Foundation has provided for the last two years.

The resolution was presented by a committee from the Community Fund Foundation including E. J. Cleveland, Foundation president, Robert T. Mason, A. W. Kette, and J. E. Oliphant. Ellis Oiler, representing the Marion Industrial Union council (CIO) also was present to urge the city to take over the program. Mr. Oiler is a member of the board of trustees of the Marion Community Foundation.

Mr. Mason, who also is chairman of the city recreation commission, presented the resolution. He pointed out that the community Foundation had eliminated the recreation commission as one of its participating agencies due to the necessity of restricting the foundation's activities now that the wartime emergency is over.

For the last two years the foundation has provided the recreation commission with approximately $5,000 a year. The Foundation's resolution asked council to appropriate not less than this amount to carry on the work in the future. Mr. Mason pointed out that the commission had never spent all funds available for the summer program.

Accomplishments Cited

Mr. Kette, Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Oliphant pointed to the good work accomplished by the commission in the summer playground activities and urged that the program be continued. Mr. Cleveland declared that Marion has lagged behind many cities in providing recreational activities for its young people.

Mr. Oiler declared that organized labor was greatly disappointed when the community Fund Foundation eliminated the recreation commission as a participating agency and strongly urged that council assume the responsibility for continuing the program. He expressed the opinion that a recreation program was a vital function of municipal government.

W. G. Slack, president of council, received the Foundation's resolution and referred it to the council finance committee. He expressed the opinion the city might have difficulty finding funds for the program but said no definite conclusion could be reached until the committee had completed its study of the proposal.

Zone Changes Asked

Council acted on three petitions for transfer of properties from the residential to commercial zones. The properties involved and the petitioners are, F. R. McDaniel, 497 Silver street; Stewart Construction Co., Gill avenue and F. E. Williams, Patterson street. McDaniel and Williams plan to build grocery stores and the construction company intends to erect a storage building.

A public hearing on the McDaniel petition was scheduled before the city planning commission for Nov. 26. The Stewart Construction Co. petition was referred to the planning commission after a spokesman for residents in the neighborhood filed a petition in opposition to the project. The spokesman said most of the signers originally signed the company's petition approving the project but later changed their minds. The Williams petition was referred to City Solicitor Edwin B. Spohn for preparation of legislation for presentation to the planning commission.

The city treasurer was authorized by council to enter into contracts with the National City bank and the Marion County bank to serve as depositories for active funds in amounts up to $125,000.

City Auditor Elmer Shaw certified that the garbage fund held $15,000 in appropriated funds. Of this amount council appropriated $9,900 as follows: for payroll $9,500, and supplies $200 and for motor fuel $200.

An ordinance was passed to pay Floyd T. Hyatt of LaRue $23.07 for damage to his car in an accident with a city owned truck on North Prospect street Oct. 15.

New Truck Delivered

Service - Safety Director E. O. Uncapher reported to council that the garbage department had received delivery of a new truck for the garbage route in the business district. The truck will be put in operation after it is equipped with a new compressor type body built by the Marion Metal Products Co.

Following the council meeting the street and alley committee, Charles Tate, Clarence Salter and Pearl Sells, approved requests for installation of street lights on Foster lane between Olney and Blaine and at an alley intersection east of North State street and south of East George street.

CLASS ENTERTAINED

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bowen entertained the Cheerful Helpers Sunday school class of the Oakland Evangelical church Friday night at their home on Bennett street. Mrs. Clifford Ward conducted devotions, and Rev. H. V. Falor, pastor, led the group in prayer. Contests, in charge of Mr. and Mrs. William Feaver and Mrs. Helen Cox, entertained the group at the close of the program. Plans were made for a rabbit supper Nov. 20. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Dorothy Cashell.

JAP NEW DEAL SHAKES THRONE

Hirohito No. 1 Issue as Communists Oppose Demands of Conservative Group.

By The Associated Press

TOKYO, Oct. 23—The rocking emperor system, which has ruled the Japanese people for centuries, became Japan's number one political issue today as the once powerful family industrial monopolies crumbled under a "new deal."

A committee of 183 diet members, seeking to reform old line party elements, today called for "absolute and unqualified defense of tenno" (the emperor system.)

At once the cabinet was called into another extraordinary session to discuss the dissolution of the Zaibatsu, (family owned industrial monopolies) announced yesterday.

The diet committee asked for "a determined fight against communism and liberalism," while the new Japanese liberal party pledged to "uphold and defend Japan's unique national structure" —tennoism

Is Conservative Party

The diet committee, forming what probably will be a conservative party containing remnants of both the old line Seiuykai and Minseito, also called for a nation dedicated to peace and a government responsible to the diet.

This group is believed to have approached Prince Fumimaro Konoye, the nation's first postwar vice premier, to accept the presidency. He indicated he would decline.

The liberals advocated a diplomacy which would permit Japan to "join the United Nations organization at the earliest possible date" and supported proposed women's suffrage, increasing the power of the diet and guaranteeing the people's freedom.

The Communists announced a campaign to raise 200,000 yen (about $13,334) to assist released political prisoners and relatives of others who died in jails.

Would Oust Emperor

The Communist speakers have insisted on elimination of tennoism. This unprecedented discussion of tennoism as a political issue apparently has heightened confusion among the public.

Reliable sources say the Socialists' left wingers advocate elimination of the emperor but that other elements insist upon retaining the Mikado.

Konoye asserted the Mikado's highly touted divinity never had been a legal concept, but admitted constitutional revision on which he is working would rob Hirohito of some of his absolute powers.

Tokyo's powerful newspaper Asahi almost attacked the monopoly liquidation announcement, declaring the dissolution plans of the once all-powerful Mitsui, Sumotomo and Mitsubishi corporations were but a screen behind which they sought to evade responsibility for the war and to protect giant profits.

Japan's education system came in for a radical change. MacArthur's headquarters ordered feudal militarism abolished from the school system and replaced with instruction in peace.

Col. Ken Dyke, chief of civilian information and education in the American occupation headquarters announced Japanese textbooks had been checked and deletions recommended.

Five schools at Morioka suspended classes because of lack of food, the newspaper Asahi reported. Pupils in primary grades have been put to work in the fields.

American headquarters announced the famous American division will start home soon. The first group of officers and men will leave Nov. 3.

Open House Event Scheduled at High School on Oct. 29

Parents and Friends To Visit Classes in Observance of American Education Week.

In observance of American Education Week, "Open House" will be observed at Harding High school Monday night, Oct. 29.

All parents and friends of the students are invited to visit the school where they may see what the boys and girls are doing in their classes. The students will have a chance to show Harding High school at work. This is the first time the school has been open to the public while classes are in session.

Registration will be held from 7 to 7:30 p. m. and regular classes will then convene. The tardy bell will ring at 7:30 and all pupils will report directly to their second period classes. The usual classes for the second and third periods will be conducted, but with shorter periods, and the schedule will be that which is usually followed on Friday morning but omitting the fourth period.

After all students have reported to their second period classes, the first group will go to West Hall for the first assembly, and the second group will follow them later. After both assemblies, all students will go to their third period class and will be dismissed following that period.

All visitors may attend the assembly and are free to visit any classes during the time they are there. The idea of the "open house" is to acquaint the people of Marion with what goes on at Harding High school. Because of the limited room, boys and girls of the Junior High schools will not be admitted, and younger children must be accompanied by their parents.

On Monday morning, school will convene as usual and will open with the first period. Then students will go to periods 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8, with class periods shortened. There will be no school in the afternoon.

Members of the student council are making plans to take care of the registration and ushering of guests.

The faculty committee for this event consists of Miss Margery Eymon, chairman, Miss Lucille Foreman, Miss Rauhauser, Mrs. Thelma Jacobs, R. C. Dunlap, George Wilson and L. H. Rieker.

1,025 WAR VETERANS STUDYING AT STATE

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O.—Ohio State university's student body of 11,700 this fall includes 1,025 war veterans attending under the government's educational program, according to Dr. Bland L. Stradley, vice president in charge of student affairs.

The 1,025 will be increased by about 200 before the end of the term as veterans already attending Ohio State complete their terminal leaves and go under the "G. I. Bill" through which the government pays their college expenses.

There's little evidence, Dr. Stradley reports, that veterans' course interests are any different from those of other students. Veterans' enrollment, by colleges, are: Agriculture, 81; Arts and Sciences, 225; Commerce, 283; Dentistry, 47; Education, 100; Engineering 139; Law, 8; Medicine, 22; Pharmacy, 13; Veterinary Medicine, 24; Graduate School, 25.

Select Cows
Will be sold at Marion Union Stock Yards on Monday, Oct. 29
at 1 o'clock
The reason
Three years ago the Testing Associate gave me an average of 9004 lbs. of milk and 358 lbs. of fat per cow on a herd numbering 30 head. I then purchased two of the best bulls I could buy, one a Holstein, the other a Guernsey and bred these cows with the result I have 24 head of coming one year old and two years old heifers beginning to freshen and so I am selling my milking herd. These cows are Holstein and Guernsey, free from disease better than half of them fresh, five springers and the others are giving good flow of milk. All will make good winter cows. Some of these cows are the best I ever owned. All absolutely to go.

LABOR TRENDS CHILL MARKET

Declines of 1 to 2 or More Points Noted in General Downward Tendency.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 23—Renewed bearishness over the labor picture received the principal blame today for a general retreat of the stock market.
Declines of one to two or more points predominated near the fourth hour. The direction was only slightly cloudy until around midday when selling of steels and motors spread to other departments. Dealings picked up for a while but slow intervals were plentiful.
U. S. Steel's rejection of union wage demands plus threats of a strike in the automotive field helped chill bullish ardor.
Prominent casualties included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Douglas Aircraft, Du Pont, Westinghouse, Anaconda, American Telephone, Southern Pacific, Goodyear, General Electric and Santa Fe.

GRAIN MARKET DROPS AFTER EARLY HIGHS

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 23—Grain futures traders, highly sensitive to developments in other markets and in wage and price control fields, lost their recent bullish enthusiasm today and prices slid downward in closing transactions from the early highs.
Depressing factors included recessions in the stock market, rejection by United States Steel of a union demand for a $2 a day general wage increase, and Price Administrator Chester Bowles' declaration before a congressional committee that there still would be need for price and rent control after next June.
During the opening upturn December corn reached the ceiling of $1.18¼ cents a bushel and rye registered gains of as much as 1¼ cents. Other grains were correspondingly firm at that time, with wheat, oats and barley showing gains of around a cent at intervals.
Some milling interest was noted in the wheat pit, but demand generally was light. Other grains quickly reflected a recession by rye in the absence of any marked support.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

WHAT now? I asked myself impatiently as I heard Georges urgent request.

It was one I could not very well refuse, but I was conscious that my voice was curt as I answered him.

"Very well, five seconds," I said, and he spoke quickly

Very Simple

"It is very simple," he said "I want you to get off with me on the floor above the one on which your apartment is located and listen to me for one minute I swear I will not delay you longer than a minute, perhaps less '

"If you will keep that promise, I will grant that request,' I told him, putting my finger on the elevator button 'But, I [illegible], that when the minute is up I shall proceed directly to my father

"I am prepared for that," he said, and there was such unusual humility in his manner that I shot a shrewd, appraising look at him from under my eyelashes Was he sincere, or playing a game? My experience with the engaging royal fugitive suggested that his humility was assumed, but there was always the chance that I was misjudging him, and I remembered an adage of my little mother's, so long gone from me

'I would rather be fooled by a thousand people she used to say, than to misjudge and punish one

One Amendment

I think I shall make one amendment to that suggestion of yours,' I said hurriedly, as we heard the elevator coming up

Yes he queried attentively

'That we get off on the sixteenth floor That will be about half way between this floor and ours Thus we will minimize the possibility of anyone from either of these floors even the maids seeing us

As you wish of course ' he said and then the elevator door opened, and we stepped inside an empty car

I inclined my head toward Georges, and taking the cue, he gave the order to the operator

Sixteenth floor, he said, and in another few seconds we were on the floor, with the elevator on its way downward

Sought Seclusion

I saw Georges' eyes raking the corridor until they rested on a window alcove at the end, which offered a slight measure of seclusion

'Shall we go over there?" he said, and something in his manner made me suddenly tense He was going to say or do something of tremendous importance to himself and to others My "familiar spirit'—the term which my husband applies to what I fondly like to term my intuition'—told me that decisively, and I suddenly decided to delay my father another minute or two, if necessary, to find out just what the fugitive king had on his mind

I was remembering the look on both Olina's face and his, as he escorted the exiled princess into the library of the Philip Veritzen apartment. He had left Olina there alone, because, I was sure, she was so emotionally shaken by their farewell that she wished to be alone for awhile I was sure also that his whispered message to Olga had concerned her daughter's wish not to be disturbed for a time

A Terrific Farewell

He must have put on a terrific farewell love scene, I told myself angrily, remembering, what Georges did not dream I knew, namely, that he still had in his possession an old, tenderly inscribed photograph of Mary which she had given him in the days of their long-ago betrothal, so soon cut short, a photograph which he was jealously preserving as his most prized possession.

My plans were all laid for "Mr K," my father's FBI assistant, to recover that photograph, but my remembrance of Olina's face made my anger wax hotter against Georges for still keeping the photograph of Mary, the finding of which, in his wallet, had broken Olina's formal troth with him in the days which she was a princess and he was a king.

And then, swiftly, unbelievably, Georges set down his bags, thrust his hand into his breast pocket, took out his wallet, and from it extracted a tissue-wrapped photograph which he held out to me.

"Will you please give this to Mary?" he asked.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN BUNDESEN, M. D.

Circulatory Ailment

A number of different disorders affect the circulation in the hands, arms, and legs. One of these conditions, which affects the hands especially, is known as Raynaud's disease. This is a disorder in which there is a spasm of the arteries supplying the fingers with blood.

When an attack occurs, the fingers first turn a waxy-white color; then they become blue, and finally red When the redness develops, it indicates that the attack is over.

True, severe forms of Raynaud's disease are evidently rare, but the symptoms which occur in this disease also may develop in almost any disorder which affects the blood vessels However, many mild attacks of Raynaud's disease seem to occur.

If the attacks develop often enough and last long enough, certain changes occur in the walls of the blood vessels and in the tissues, which finally lead to the formation of blood clots in the arteries and hardening of the finger tips with the formation of ulcers or sores due to gangrene or death of the tissues

Many of the mildest attacks of Raynaud's disease in young women can be treated by giving large amounts of the vitamins and preparations containing iron and arsenic

When the condition is more severe, the only treatment which has been found of any particular value is an operation known as sympathectomy The blood vessels are controlled by the sympathetic nerves Cutting these nerves will tend to keep the blood vessel spasms from developing

However, even this treatment may not completely relieve the symptoms Attacks may still occur in which the finger tips turn white and blue but they last only a short period of time and the third stage, in which the redness develops, does not occur During this third stage there is often pain and burning and these symptoms are prevented by the operation on the sympathetic nerves

There are other diseases, such as acrocyanosis, which produce symptoms similar to those appearing in Raynaud's disease In patients who have had infantile paralysis, blood vessel spasms may develop Such patients apparently are benefited by sympathectomy

Old people, with hardening of the arteries, may suffer from burning of the hands and feet In such cases sympathectomy may give temporary relief but will not produce a cure

It is important that Raynaud's disease should be diagnosed as early as possible, since the sooner treatment is carried out the better will be the results

Need of New City Hall Shown in Recent Overflow of Prison

46 Men and Women Jammed Into Quarters Designed for 12 Following Early Sunday Morning Arrests.

By W. T. BUCHANAN

Inadequacy of the quarters for the Marion police department and the city prison was forcefully demonstrated over the week-end when an influx of prisoners from a series of liquor raids taxed the facilities beyond capacity.

For several hours Sunday morning city police were forced to confine 46 persons in quarters designed for 12. The situation was eased only when a number of those arrested in the night raids were released on bond before morning.

Today city officials and members of the Marion Civic Planning Group pointed to the situation as the best argument in favor of the plan and program now in progress for the Harding high school building for conversion into a city-owned municipal building.

Police Chief William E. Marks is discussing the city prison situation very mild and that at the peak of the Sunday morning rush he had 12 women prisoners in quarters designed for two and 32 men in the men's section equipped to handle 10.

One Cot in Women's Room

Women's quarters in the city prison consist of one 10 by 14 foot room with toilet and washbowl. It has one cot big enough for two persons. At the peak of the week-end rush 12 women were confined in this room. Chief Marks said the department would have been hard put to find other quarters for the women prisoners if most of them had not been released on bond.

Doubling up was the answer in the men's section when the regular run of week-end arrests and the liquor raids brought in 32 prisoners. The men's section contains five iron cells each equipped with two plank bunks.

The chief said sanitary facilities in both men's and women's quarters are inadequate and outmoded. This situation has existed a long time, he said.

Often Overcrowded

While the situation Sunday morning was unusual, the chief pointed out that frequently the prison is taxed beyond its capacity.

The biggest obstacle to improving the prison quarters is lack of space. This factor also hampers the department in planning an efficient arrangement of the police department officials point out.

In recent years the department has been enlarged by the addition of more men with the advent of the eight-hour shift and the police radio system.

As the department grew the offices became more cramped and while some rearranging was done the quarters still are too small and inefficiently laid out. One noticeable handicap is the arrangement for booking prisoners, especially large numbers. To book them police are forced to ham the prisoners in a narrow hall both ends of which have free access to the outside of the building.

Difficulties in Segregation

Under the present arrangement segregation of prisoners is difficult to prevent communication while the police are in the preliminary stages of investigations. Only by leaving some at the city prison and taking others to the county jail on North State street are police able to separate them.

Lack of space also hampers the municipal court, which occupies the city council chamber, when more than a few prisoners are to appear at one time.

Australian Brides Return to Homeland Squawking at U.S.A

By The Associated Press

BRISBANE, Australia, Oct. 23—More than 50 Australian brides of American service men returned from the United States aboard the Matsonia yesterday, some saying they were simply homesick and others disappointed because the country was "not like the movies and magazine advertisements."

Among the women were some widows and divorcees and others who said they were "not fed up."

"I feel like an outcast," said Mrs. Betty Schmidt of Sidney, "the American women resented us and were always saying we married only their men."

"America is likable but the people are dreadful," exclaimed another, Mrs. Margaret MacDonald of Sydney. "Everyone rushes around like lightning and after the quiet life in Australia America is terrible before."

Mrs. Joan Ballard of Sidney said, "Everything in America is fast and everyone is selfish. A decent meal costs more there than a beer anywhere here. The pace of living and playing gets on one's nerves."

About all he's made out of the field up to now is what he receives for servicing visiting aircraft.

That and a lot of future business for he believes he has made a friend and a future customer of every flier who lands there.

A couple of Ozarks hills away is the much-publicized Eldon, Mo., airpark—the $25,000 national aeronautical guinea pig — where a planned landing field for small communities is being studied by CAA and state aeronautical experts.

Harris believes his slowly developing individual project can offer the same facilities and compares favorably with the more costly airpark.

Wife Gives Help

Harris got his financial start from his wife, Dorothy, an enthusiastic partner and flying student. She worked as a registered nurse and hospital technician and saved a lot of her earnings while her husband was in the Army Air Forces

The local Aero club, four Versailles businessmen who bought their own plane, has given Chuck some financial backing and the money he saved during his four years in the Army also helped

Harris is expanding on a strictly cash basis. He buys nothing he can't pay for on delivery.

Chuck started flying when he was 10 years old — without the knowledge of his parents. An older friend bought and wired together an old Army 'Jerry,' and the Ozarks farm lad talked his way into learning to fly the decrepit crate.

Once he swooshed low over the home farm as his mother was busy hanging out clothes 'Hi, mom,,' he cried.

The anguished Mrs Harris hurried to find her husband and demand that he "get that boy down here on the ground."

Father Harris shrugged resignedly and said, "What can I do with him up there and me down here?"

They long ago gave up trying to get Chuck back on the ground.

When in a state of hibernation, a ground squirrel can be pinched, dropped from several feet in the air, and even have pins stuck in it without stirring from its sleep.

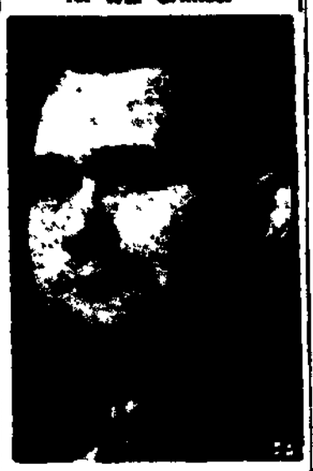
This Man is Among Nazi Chiefs Awaiting Trial for War Crimes.



RUDOLF HESS

By The Associated Press

Rudolph Hess, 51, a bushy-browed ex-pursuit pilot, was Hitler's Man Friday, probably closer personally to the Fuehrer than any other man, until he flew the Nazi coop in a stolen Messerschmitt in May, 1941, and parachuted down in a Scottish moor. He had been second in line, after Goering, for Hitler's job—the No 3 German. The reason for his sudden flight became one of the war's most puzzling secrets. "The shadow," as Germans called him, was held prisoner in an English castle where he reportedly was treated for severe melancholia, bordering on insanity. Tall and dark with a dull sheep-like personality, Hess was preparing to enter his father's import business in Egypt when World War I interrupted. He volunteered and became a run-of-the-mill flier . . . joined the embryo Nazis as Hitler's aide . . . was jailed for eight months after the 1923 putsch . . . became Hitler's private secretary in 1923 . . . often delivered his speeches . . . passed out the Mothers' Crosses of Honor to prolific women . . . neither drank nor smoked

STRIP MINING PUTS OHIO 5TH IN NATION

By International News Service

COLUMBUS, O., Oct 23 — Strip mining was given a large share of credit for having raised Ohio to the fifth largest coal producing state in the country, in a survey of mining from 1900 through 1944 by State Industrial Relations Director J. Harry Moore

The state's greatest coal production was between 1917 and 1918, when machine cut coal reached 50 000 000 tons, strip mined coal reached 10 000 000 tons pick mined coal reached 5,000,000 tons.

Next peaks were in 1920 when the three methods produced 57,000,000 tons, and in 1923 when 49,000,000 tons were produced

Machine cut and pick mined coal in 1900 produced 28 000 tons

Pick mining was in a gradual decline when strip mining came into use for the first time in Ohio in 1914 Within one year, production by this method outgrew production by pick mining Machine cut production, however, continued to lead by many millions of tons

During 1927 and 1932 machine cut coal production dropped sharply while strip mining continued steadily and pick mining declined

Since 1936 strip mining has increased rapidly while pick mining has almost disappeared by comparison By the end of 1941 machine cut coal reached 31,000,000 tons strip mining reached 9,000,000 tons and pick mining dropped to 1 000,000 tons

The most recent annual coal production report, that of 1944, put machine cut coal at 31 000,000, strip mined coal at 11 000,000 and pick mined coal at an all-time low of less than 1,000,000 tons

During 1944 Ohio was the fifth largest coal producing state in the country Total production figures were West Virginia, 163,845,000 Pennsylvania, 148,800,000 Illinois, 76 000 000 Kentucky 66 237 000 and Ohio, 33,940 000

"Angel of Colombo" Reunites War-Broken Malayan Families

By G. MILTON KELLY
Associated Press Writer

COLOMBO, CEYLON — Foresight and generosity of an English woman is making possible pathetically joyous scenes of reunited husbands and wives as thousands of refugees separated by the Japanese invasion of Malaya begin rebuilding their lives.

The refugees call Mrs. Joy L. Donald the "Angel of Colombo."

When residents of the peninsula fled in panic before the invader, Mrs. Donald realized the difficulties they would encounter when they tried to reestablish contact with their families. She built a program of care for repatriates which has become a cooperative operation financed by the British government.

The venture unites the facilities of the government, its armed services, the Red Cross, the Ceylon evacuees committee and Malayan associations.

Information Service

Mrs. Donald's information service provides liberated prisoners and internees with word of their loved ones, and sometimes relatives of dislocated persons wait here for their reunions.

Witnesses wept at one such scene in which a British couple, who had lived in Singapore but who had been without knowledge of each other since the city's fall and the husband's internment, met by chance in a barracks. Each had visited the repatriation center expecting months of painful search. The husband had come ashore from a prisoner of war ship transporting a liberated group to England.

His wife, who had escaped the Japanese and had been a refugee in Australia, had come to Colombo hopeful of getting word of him.

The two faced each other dazedly on the steps of the barracks for many moments before they embraced, weeping.

30 Couples Reunited

The center's headquarters estimated 30 couple were reunited on its grounds after liberation from prisoner camps. Probably 200 other reunions involved fathers with children, brothers with sisters or other kinsmen.

Loudspeakers at the information office broadcast messages of those hunting relatives and friends. There have been instances prisoners and their relatives sent simultaneous calls for one another.

Far too few of the stories, however, have happy endings.

During the frantic days when tens of thousands of refugees drifted through Ceylon from Malaya and many persons fled Ceylon in fear of invasion, Mrs. Donald wondered how these frightened people ever would be reunited.

There was no government agency recording the refugees' movements. Mrs. Donald, with two other Colombo women, set out to make a record. Daily from morning to dark they sat on a jetty, penciling in notebooks as complete a record possible on each transient refugee.

Hires Own Typist

Mrs. Donald hired a typist to transcribe the notes and index the names. She kept a file of more than 10,000 cards, each bearing a case record which was kept up to date. These she turned over to the Malayan government.

After the death in 1942 of her husband, George Donald, a director of a Colombo engineering firm, the government helped her with her project and finally took over its expenses.

SERVICE DISCHARGES KEEP RECORDER BUSY

Veterans Rush to County Office on Returning Home.

One of the busiest offices in the Marion county courthouse these days is that of Recorder Grace Zachman where World War II veterans are filing their discharge papers and obtaining certified copies. Keeping with the law the veterans are entitled to a free certified copy of their discharge papers, and many are obtaining them with the filing of their papers, the records show.

While this is all right, and we are happy to fill out the certified copies," Mrs. Zachman said today, "many of the veterans are returning to former jobs or going into employment where certified copies are not needed, consequently the number has no immediate use for the record." By obtaining the free certified record before there is a need for it, the veteran takes the chance of it being lost, stolen or destroyed, and in such an event would be required to pay a fee to obtain a duplicate. It would be safer and simpler, she points out, if veterans waited until the need for a certified copy arose and obtained their free copy at that time.

Several changes, due to new legislation, are effective in the recorder's office. The law now requires that signatures on all papers filed must be typewritten and also written in long hand. A fee of 15 cents is required for the release of chattel mortgages, to be paid by the mortgagor, (heretofore there was no charge) and a charge of $5 is now made for a certificate of registered land under the Torrens law instead of the former fee of $3.

The Chines are believed to have been the earliest of all people to solve the chief problem of boat building, and to have worked out the art of navigation.

Toledo Firm Works on Jeeps Made of Glass and Plastic

By The Associated Press

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 23 — You can buy a jeep with a rear-end attachment to run a buzz saw, a glass necktie or a boat made out of glass-reinforced plastic in Toledo.

The Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp. is working with a complete automobile body made out of plastic which has been reinforced with glass fiber in such a way it will not dent under a blow that would bend an ordinary steel body. The material is as light as magnesium.

A few miles away, Willys-Overland Motors has been turning out a civilian jeep, considerably heavier than the military version, which has a gear ratio so low it can pull a plow at two miles an hour and run a threshing machine through a special power shaft in the rear end. Production has been halted for nearly four weeks because of a strike in an outside parts plant.

Both concerns were visited by 16 newspaper reporters in an inspection of reconversion progress.

The Fiberglas Co. is working on a line of products that extend from fabrics to bullet proof vests. In addition to research laboratory work on a glass plastic boat, fiberglas in other forms is being used for filling bed comforters and making lightweight fracture casts.

JENKINS AND BENDER NOT LIKELY TO RUN

Reported Holding Back in Favor of Bricker Campaign.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23—Prospects now are that neither Rep. at-Large George H. Bender nor Rep. Thomas A. Jenkins, Ohio Republicans, will run for the U. S. senate.

Friends said today the expected announcement by former Governor John W. Bricker of his candidacy for the Republican nomination prompted Bender and Jenkins to forego the race.

There are reports that Bender will seek the gubernatorial nomination, although he has not made a formal statement.

Jenkins also is withholding any comment, but some Ohio congressmen say he is considering seriously a contest for the statehouse nomination, particularly if Bender runs.

Bender has been tested several times in statewide elections in which he won his at-large seat in the house. He ran far ahead of his ticket in the last election.

Spiritualists Seek Ghostly Greetings for Ohio Meeting

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 23—Two top-ranking mediums will attempt to convey greetings from the spirit world to a public gathering of more than 200 persons tomorrow.

The seance will be one of the principal events of the 53rd annual convention of the National Spiritualists association.

The two mediums, considered among the best of the association's clairvoyant talent, are Mrs. Florence Becker of San Francisco, Calif., and Mrs. Martha Haupt of Independence, Ky.

What sort of greetings and from whom they will come when the two mediums "tune in" their celestial radio sets is not certain, the mediums explained.

Mrs. Becker, "pastor" of a spiritualist church called the Golden Gate in San Francisco has been described as a "10-tube medium" by Ralph Pressing of New York, editor and published of the "Psychic Observer," a bi-monthly spiritualist newspaper.

Pressing says he describes minor mediums as "just two-tube sets."

The 220 delegates convened here for the six-day convention represent an association membership of 40,000 with adherents in 34 countries, according to Smith and Dr. Victoria Barnes of Chicago, an association trustee.

Lady Nearly Choked While Lying in Bed— Due to Stomach Gas

One lady said a few days ago that she used to be afraid to go to bed at night. She was swollen with stomach gas, which always got worse when she went to bed, and the gas would rise up in her throat after she lay down and would nearly choke her. She couldn't lie flat. Had to prop herself up on pillows. Recently this lady got ERB-HELP and now says gas is gone, stomach feels fine, bowels are regular and she can go to bed and sleep soundly.

ERB-HELP contains 12 Great Herbs; they cleanse bowels, clear gas from stomach, act on sluggish liver and kidneys. Miserable people soon feel different all over. So don't go on suffering! Get ERB-HELP. Sold by all drug stores here in Marion.—Adv.

Party Responsibility

In the near future, if it hasn't dawned on them already, a number of potential Hitlers and their followers on the make in various nations will realize the tremendous implications of political party responsibility as set forth in the indictment of Germany's war criminals.

What the indictment sets forth in effect is that any member of a political party which becomes responsible for conspiracy to break the peace of the world shares responsibility and is subject to indictment, conviction and punishment as a war criminal.

Carried one step further, the indictment proposes that political parties, hitherto regarded as of merely domestic significance, shall be regarded as internationally significant. Probably no highly placed member of Hitler's National Socialist party is directly guilty of the base crimes of violence that grew out of the party program, but all are charged with guilt for the conspiracy that broke the peace. It is contended, in other words, that membership in any organization that violates the peace of the world has become an international offense. The same principle will be applied in due course of time to Japan's militarist conspirators.

The implications of this concept are too vast to be comprehended at first thought. They can be realized vaguely, however, by remembering that Fritz Kuhn, who was the leader of a political minority in the United States, has been deported to Germany and is under arrest there for his part in a war he watched from the United States.

Responsibility for Inflation

WALTER P. REUTHER, vice president of United Auto Workers, the CIO affiliate leading the organization's campaign for an arbitrary 30 per cent wage increase, has declared in a brief submitted to General Motors Corp. that "the well-being of American workers, businessmen, farmers, white collar and professional groups requires the 30 per cent increase which General Motors is able to pay without increasing prices."

The last clause in this statement is the nub of the issue, the Henry Wallace-CIO thesis that the wage element in the cost of production can be increased arbitrarily without a corresponding increase in the price of the product. General Motors Corp. says it would be an economic impossibility. The president of Chrysler Corp., K. T. Keller, has stated the situation bluntly: "It's up to Washington to decide how much inflation they want." Other spokesmen for the automobile industry, chosen by CIO as the proving ground for its more-wages-same-cost thesis, all insist that it is demonstrably wrong. Mr. Reuther himself told newsmen at the close of last week that "if the automobile companies can't give us 30 per cent without increasing costs, that's one thing—but we think they can."

There is a political as well as an economic question raised by this difference of opinion. The federal government, through its authority to force management into certain industrial relations and price patterns, must accept ultimate responsibility for whatever price inflation might be caused directly by arbitrary wage increases. As Mr. Reuther says, the "well-being" of all of us is at stake. But it remains to be seen whether it will be served best if the higher wage-higher price cycle is jet-propelled in the basic automobile industry. What is happening in that industry today in the name of collective bargaining will have its repercussions eventually at the polls.

Unfinished Business

LT. GEN. BARNEY M. GILES, commander of the strategic air war against Japan and a man who knows all the potentialities of aviation, has referred to a piece of unfinished business in a report on his findings since V-J day. Along with the effect of American raids on Japan, Gen. Giles learned that Japan was prepared to use as many as 10,000 suicide planes against the attack that would have taken place against Kyushu next month if the war had continued.

The sensational disclosure of the atomic bomb in the closing hours of a war which Japan already had lost excluded attention from some of the other sensational things that happened. Its suicide aviators did not avert defeat, but they made the United States pay more heavily in shipping for its victory than had been anticipated. The suicide tactic, belittled while it was in use, proved to be one of the major causes of concern in the Pacific war; post-war disclosures have revealed its true proportions. Its effect on naval strategy in the next generation may be as far-reaching as the earlier effects of the underseas submarine and the overhead bomber.

Japan demonstrated while losing the war that it could have exacted a fearful penalty in ships and lives had the Kyushu invasion been carried out, a circumstance that had vastly more effect on Gen. MacArthur, who knows what Americans were spared, than on some of us safe at home who thought Japan should be invaded at any cost. The United States may have been spared a Pyrrhic victory.

At a vast expense of time and money, the good ship Normandie is salvaged, only to be retired. It corresponds to getting Tojo into shape, via transfusions, for the hanging.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

Political Propaganda in Kitchen.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23—My bare mention of the campaign of self-professed liberal leaders to abolish the industry of commercial domestic science in the brave new world, brought a ton of letters from both sides—the housewives and the domestics.

The domestics who wrote rather agreed with the liberal pretense that such work was—as a leading national weekly wrote it—"beneath the personality" of the individual.

Now my column deals only with major events, the inside on the economic, political and international news of the hour, and some may say the proposed abolition of this industry is not a fit subject for me to delve into. Frankly I know of nothing more important than the art of living, and a proposal to abolish it is more important to every human being than what the senate will do with taxes.

Whether you work at a machine or a desk, you have a home and the conditions under which you live in it are as vital as life itself.

Dignity of Living Well

Dignity? What is more dignified than a clean, well kept, comfortable home. What service contributes more to humanity than those which contribute to the joy of living?

Personality? What personality is most respected and loved in this world than that of a smiling, genial friendly human being in whatever walk of life?

What art contributes more to the happiness of the individual than the art of cooking? I am only interested when these nonsense peddlers propose their funny business in economics, politics and world affairs, but when they propose to abolish cooking they really get me riled.

What do they eat? No doubt vitamin pills and bicarbonate of soda, as I have heard one of them say. They do not know the dignity of a well-cooked steak over a charcoal broiler, one about two inches thick, not rare, just slightly pink in the middle, flavored when done with a little butter and pepper and salt.

What breathes more personality into the human soul than a roast turkey, done so the juice spurts when you stick the fork into the crisp browned skin. A pheasant stuffed with onions, carefully roasted! Why even the lowly beef stew has great personality, greater to me than a lot of glum and bitter people I know.

But few people can do it right. As a matter of fact few can do any of these things well, so far have we been led away from the Elysian fields of the kitchen by propaganda pipers and prevaricators. The best stew I get is what I make myself, and the next best is in a one arm restaurant, where the cook is better on the subject of beef stew than the fancy cooks of the high priced hotels.

No Loss of Dignity

Cooking is not beneath the dignity of anyone's personality. I do not care how great he or she may be, and I include the doorman of the Savoy hotel in London whose dignity surpasseth anything I have seen, including the United States supreme court.

Why then do these fake liberals propose to abolish the art of living, by repudiating its plain social significance? The first answer which would probably occur to anyone is that they are nutz. More than that they are just plain nuts. They are obsessed, like the Communists with whom they fraternize, with only one ideal of life—politics.

They see nothing more in human existence. There must be no joke which does not convey a political meaning, no stage play or movie without political propaganda significance and now they have put politics into the home.

They are trying to convince every maid, cook and servant that such work is beneath them in order to make them rebellious against their jobs. If there is one thing which will ruin any man on any job, it is his conversion to the theory that the work is beneath him. He cannot do the job justice, and he cannot have happiness in his work. He ruins both the pleasure of living and the work he is doing. If I took my job that way I would never earn a living.

Of all the political bunk worked off on these United States as valid liberalism and forward looking progress, this effort to mislead public thought is the most stupid.

De Gaulle's "Harry Hopkins"

That's the Role of Palewski; Former Newspaperman.

SOCIALITE—M. Palewski turns on the charm for a woman at a Paris social gathering.

• • •

By The Associated Press

PARIS—If France has a Harry Hopkins, he is Gaston Palewski, former Paris newspaperman now called Gen. DeGaulle's "guardian angel."

Little known Palewski, 54-year-old chef de cabinet, or roughly, private secretary, is known to the press as "regent," "emperor," or "his grey eminence," as Father du Tremblay was confidant to Louis XIII.

Some French political savants profess doubt that Palewski has any real influence with DeGaulle, as Hopkins was supposed to have had with President Roosevelt. They argue that DeGaulle is a lone wolf.

Others impressed by Palewski's taciturnity and his refusals to see even newspapermen, say that a year ago DeGaulle wanted to make him ambassador to Washington or Moscow, two of the most important foreign posts for Frenchmen.

Premier Stalin is supposed to have said, "I have no need for two ambassadors from Poland."

He's French

Despite his name, Palewski is a Frenchman. Smooth-mannered and impeccably dressed, Palewski is quite a social success in smart salons, where he is said to dance "like a marquis."

Withdrawing from St. Cyr, France's West Point, he joined a Moroccan regiment and was demobilized about 1928. He then became a journalist in Paris.

He met Paul Reynaud, then minister of colonies, with whom he made a long flight to Indo-China. Enroute their plane was beset by storms, but despite the rough and dangerous trip Reynaud decided to fly back.

Palewski decided to fly back too, and "thus assured his career," according to the Paris weekly, Samedi Soir.

Championed DeGaulle

He became Reynaud's chef de cabinet. After he met a colonel named DeGaulle, Palewski battled to get the war ministry to listen to the newcomer's theories about tank warfare.

In 1940 Paleswski was in the French air force; at the armistice he was in North Africa. He escaped to London, where he joined DeGaulle, who sent him to East Africa to command French troops fighting in Ethiopia. He returned to London in 1942 and was named director of DeGaulle's cabinet. Since then, he has worked closely with the general in creating the Provisional Republic.

Brazil's Rubber Boom

RIO DE JANEIRO — Brazil's vast rubber resources, stimulated by war demands, reached new production, export and consumption peaks during the period 1940-44 and hold promise for important future development.

Production of natural rubber increased 83 per cent from 1940 through this year, according to government figures covering 1940-44 and the first half of 1945. The increase was from 16,178 tons to 29,408 tons.

Consumption of natural and reclaimed rubber, and mixtures of synthetic and natural rubber by Brazilian manufacturers, increased 138 per cent for the same period.

Export of tires increased from 3,600 in 1940 to 171,990 in 1944. Tube exports increased for the same period from 300 to 117,608.

The same figures show that the value of manufactured rubber goods exported increased from about $81,000 in 1940 to $2,842,000.

Agreements with the United States call for the purchase, through June 30, 1947, of all of Brazil's exportable rubber surpuls.

Red Trend Overestimated

By Walter Lippmann

THE French elections are the latest and the most impressive in a series of events which throw a great deal of light upon the paramount question of our relations with the Soviet Union. They show, I believe, that American policy and opinion have been badly confused by a mistaken estimate of the influence which the Soviet Union is able to exert beyond its own frontiers in Europe.

The underlying assumption has been that in the misery and chaos of liberated Europe, the masses of the people would naturally turn to the Communist parties inspired and supported by Moscow. On that there has been a remarkable tacit agreement among those who were ready to welcome the spread of Communism and those who were mortally opposed to Communism.

There are the best of reasons for thinking that it is extremely improbable that Europe, beginning in the east with Poland, could be organized in a Soviet system.

If the worst happened, Europe might possibly sink into anarchy and, amidst general anarchy, local dictators might appear here and there. But to organize a Soviet system in Poland, Italy, and France, and even, as some of our more excited observers have suggested, in Great Britain, is an undertaking which is almost certainly quite beyond the power of Moscow and of the local Communists who follow Moscow.

Resistance Gains

A Soviet Europe is either a nightmare or a Utopian dream. It is in any case an imaginary idea. Every attempt to impose the Soviet system upon Europe evokes resistance and reaction which would only grow stronger the more strenuous the effort to overcome them.

The very few Americans who have talked intimately, rather than formally, with Stalin have come away convinced that he at least, as distinct from the Red isolationists in the Kremlin and the army, has understood this from the beginning.

There is now an accumulating mass of evidence that the fundamental issue in Europe is not whether the Soviet system is going to expand westward to the Atlantic, or even to the Elbe, or even to the Vistula. No election anywhere has as yet shown that the Communists have even a bare majority, much less the kind of overwhelming majority which would be necessary if a totalitarian state were to be established by popular consent.

The very fact that the Communists in the Balkans resist free elections and prefer to have arranged plebiscites proves that they themselves have no illusions about the attitude of the mass of the people. The fact also that the Kremlin is sponsoring not Communist but popular front governments—that is to say coalitions in which the Communists are joined with Socialists, Democrats and Liberals—is additional evidence that even within the zone of the Red Army, they know they cannot rely upon the Communists to provide a government.

In the European countries, which are fully independent—notably France but also Belgium, Luxembourg, the Netherlands, Norway and Denmark, there is not the slightest reason to suppose that the mass of the people think of the Soviets and the Red Army as their saviors.

Know Russia's Part

They know how great was the part the Soviet Union played in their liberation, and how gallantly so many of their own Communists behaved during the resistance. But it is certain as anything can be that the great majority have no intention of trying to buy relief from their economic misery by surrendering those liberties which, as Hitler reminded them, are more precious than life itself.

Finally, there are many strong indications that the discipline of the Red Army and of Soviet officialdom is tending to break down as a result of their contact with countries which are not Russian, and have not been subject to the indoctrination and discipline of the Soviet system. The reports are too circumstantial and too numerous to leave any doubt that underneath all the smoke of the stories about indiscipline and even desertion there is a substantial fire.

It is, I believe, a principal reason why local Soviet officials are so sticky about giving American correspondents free access to countries within the lines of the Red Army, and it may well have been a determining influence upon the action of M. Molotov at Londo[illegible].

There is, I believe, a tendency for the Soviet power to disintegrate in Europe: our own is certainly diminishing and so also is the British. It would be only natural then that the Kremlin, especially if at the same time it is concerned with the succession to Stalin, should feel that it cannot now make firm agreements, and that it must re-examine its whole foreign position.

So also must we re-examine ours. The belief, which has played so great a part in our own policy, that a Red tide was moving irresistibly westward, was a natural enough hypothesis in the days when the mighty Red Army was moving forward so majestically. If the German Army could not stop it, nothing, it was supposed, would stop it till it reached the Atlantic, and it was easy to jump to the conclusion that the Communist ideology would move forward irresistibly with the invincible Red Army.

Wrong Assumption

But the hypothesis was untrue. It assumed falsely that the prestige of the Red Army, which was so high when it liberated eastern Europe, would continue and would even grow during the occupation. But occupation never makes an army popular, nor does it ever fail to corrupt the army. The farther west the Soviets, the more non-Soviet peoples they have had to deal with, the greater have become their difficulties—not so much with their big and distant allies as with the local inhabitants and the Red Army itself.

Other influences have contributed to our own over-estimate of the Red expansion. There has been a very strong propaganda conducted by displaced officials of the government in exile who have believed, many of them no doubt honestly, that but for the Russians, certainly with American backing, they would again have a political future at home. They have exercised great influence on our officials and upon newspapermen.

It is impossible not to refer also to the fact that our attitude has been much affected by the traditional British disposition to align the smaller countries and to seek strong allies against the strongest power in Europe. The labor government seems to follow this line as instinctively as any other.

In addition, American thinking has been much modified on the whole subject because of the vulgar partisan trick of calling everyone a Communist who is to the left of the extreme right. For many Americans this has totally obscured the reality in Europe, which is—as the French elections demonstrate strikingly, as the behavior of the British Labor party shows—that the real conflict is not between conservation and Communists but between the democratic left, which includes Socialists and Liberals, and the Communists.

This is sufficient to suggest that we need to reconsider our attitude, and without attempting to say here what our new conclusion should be, we may say, I believe, that we must base our policy not on the imaginary fear of Communist expansion westward but upon the need of strengthening European democracy against the real peril of anarchy.

The Fleet's Return

LOOK at 'em, brother, and bow your head;
Ships that came back from the ocean's dead.
Wagons that tasted the bitter gall,
Worthy of more than a carnival.

Look at 'em, brother, and know that they
Suffered and bled through a frightful day
Took it as only the martyrs do....
Keeping this land and its ways for YOU!

Stand at attention and say a pray'r,
Thanking your God that these ships were there....
Thanking the Lord that such men as these
Battled for you on the blood-red seas!

Look at 'em not in the Broadway mood,
Flippant and carefree and light and rude...
Look at 'em not as a big-town show—
Agony lingers beneath the glow!

• • •

Look at these ships in no mood all fun...
This is no showman's production, son...
Only an hour ago, it seems,
Anguish was there...and the flames and screams!

• • •

This is no stunt by amusement boys,
Done for blase big city's joys...
This is a drama, a passion play—
This is an epic where crosses sway!

This is a holy and sacred thing.
This is the faith of which brave men sing
This is the fleet of the tried and true—
Symbol of others who died for you.

This is no holiday ship review,
Done with a dance and a song or two
This is your chance for humility
Thinking of anguish and Galilee.

This is no fleet for your antics gay,
Here for a night and a matinee
Come for the smiles of the sleek and fat
Too many died on its decks for THAT!

• • •

This is no fleet for a speaker's bunk...
Platitudes, pictures and verses punk...
This is a sermon, a mass, a hymn...
Golgotha after the night so grim!

Peanuts and popcorn and coke and stuff
Highjinks, jazz music and drinks and guff
Take 'em away and on bended knee
Say a "Thank God!" and a litany!

We would like to know the emotions of Fred Stone and his wife as they sat in a New York theater and saw the opening of a revival of "The Red Mill," a Henry Blossom-Victor Herbert hit of the mauve decade. For Fred and his wife, then Aline Crater, were stars in the original company. Now almost 40 years later they were looking at it, with one daughter in the cast and another daughter co-producer. Oh, man!

A New York magistrate says jail terms of 30 days may soon be given habitual parkers in New York streets. How does one tell when an autoist is parking in New York and when he is not, yerroner?

Taxicabs are being slowly restored to better condition. We saw one yesterday in which the doors did not swing both inward as well as outward. And we heard of another with all the floorboards in place.

The Delicatessen Dealers Had a Name for It

The former police chief of a great city, giving up a job to appear in crime scripts for the kiddies on the radio, is now making crime movies for the little dears. He will start with the Dillinger case. We don't blame anybody for changing jobs for big money. And we like to see a policeman get ahead. But its time somebody stripped such cases of all the bunk about its being done to halt juvenile delinquency, and keep the kiddies straight.

To be sure, the scripts and movies always have justice done in the end, portraying a tough finish for the bad man, but up to that point, oh boy! It is our guess that for every kid who is kept from crime, a thousand get all-hepped up over it.

But Something Lies

By Truman Twill

See the proofs of the family group pictures that have just arrived from the photographers. Tst, tst, tst and tst. Do you suppose there could have been something wrong with his camera?

The camera doesn't lie, but by Jumpin' Jeez something lies! Papa does not have a wen on his head and mamma's legs are not gnarled like the limbs of an old apple tree.

Junior's teeth may be parted in the middle like Thomas E. Dewey's, but according to the picture there is a hole in there bigger than the hole between guard and tackle on a Notre Dame scoring play.

Furthermore, Little Brother's head is all right. It may be a little pointed on top and the curl may have been added haphazardly, but there is nothing about it in real life to suggest a sidesho[illegible].

Also, what happened to the cat? No one ever saw him looking like that, even after his worst experiences. He has the appearance of an old fur dropped on the floor by mistake by someone in a hurry. No camera in good repair would miss the sparkle and beauty of the Twilliery tom cat.

A good camera would overlook all the things that have no place in a family group picture, such as the waxy sheen on papa's head and the fact something has been added to mama here and there since she was a slip of a girl.

At the very least, a good photographer would keep details out of the picture such as Junior's baggy pants, the cowlick in Little Brother's hair an the tom cat's battle-scarred ear.

And would fuzz out the hump in papa's nose, the wrinkles in mama's dress, the beat-up appearance of papa's shoes and the resemblance of the tom cat's tail to a bottle brush.

And would have on tap in his developing room a little puff of hair to add here and a row of gleaming teeth to add there. He would make all men look like Gary Cooper, all women look like Paulette Goddard and all children look like Shirley Temple and Mickey Rooney in their youthful prime. A good photographer would make everybody happy.

As it is, tell the so-and-so he will have to do a lot better than that if he wants to do business with the Twills.

Acres for Veterans

By The United Press

SUNBURY, Pa.—At least one local business man thinks the Civil War promise of "40 acres and a mule" wasn't such a bad idea.

Because of a scarcity of mules, however, the unidentified philanthropist can't exactly repeat the old offer. But he has advertised that he will give 50 servicemen an acre of land each.

Veterans must prove they are "married and reliable" and agree to build homes on the land.

One Rescue Plane Is Wrecked

...d take off, and prayed that they would not be ... they were not. They sailed right off the water ...tly, pulled out over to the side of Cavite beyond ...nge of its antiaircraft guns, and were enveloped ... night.

Then we turned and walked back to our jobs.

I went back to my quarters in the Tunnel and after ...ing to MacArthur that the planes had gone away ... to get some sleep. I had taken over MacArthur's ...uarters in the Tunnel, as I have said, but added to ...e natural congestion of the place by putting a folding ... in the "living room" for Col. Johnny Pugh, one of ... aides.

Worse Housing Ahead

My days on Corregidor began and ended in that lit... place, which seemed so poor and shabby and de...ressing at that time—but which soon later would have ...een like the Waldorf, compared to the filth and terror ... our captivity cells.

My day, during most of the Battle for Corregidor, ...arted about 6 a. m., when I would get up, dress, walk ...t either the east or west end of the Tunnel for some ...r and a view of the damage wrought since I slept, then ...me back and eat in the hospital's convalescent mess.

After breakfast I would go to my headquarters, also in the ...nnel, attend to the paper work at hand, review the night's re...rts and the expectations—increasingly dim—for the coming day. ...e middle of the morning I would join Major Gen. George F. ...ore and sometimes tour the island either by foot or in his ...ht car, inspecting our ever-dissolving batteries.

Automobiles Short-Lived

At first Gen. Moore and I did this in semi-style, MacArthur ...d left a Buick and a Chrysler behind him. But these were soon ...wn to pieces by the shelling and bombing, so we dropped back ...to Moore's Chevrolet, a car which saw and, lived through consid...rable action.

I would get back to the Tunnel for lunch, usually a bowl of ...up, and then there would be more paper work, more information ...o receive and dispatch, followed occasionally by another inspection ...ur through the afternoon. In the evenings I had my reports to ...ake to MacArthur and the war department, summarizing the bat...tering we had received in Manila Bay and the day's action ...roughout the unoccupied portions of the Philippines.

Before turning in at night I would walk outside the Tunnel, ...t down and have a smoke if the shelling was not too bad, and ...alk with anybody who came along. And then to bed again, with ...the usual instructions to call me if the enemy performed anything ...ut of the ordinary—the ordinary being the systematic destruction of our last stronghold.

Worry Over Water and Power

A big concern during the last two weeks on Corregidor was our ...ater and power supply. Corregidor's reservoir was filled from a deep artesian well, operated by a pump run by an electric engine ...which in turn derived its power from fuel oil.

The raising, lowering and moving of the big guns and their ...mmunition, during the unending artillery duels, as well as the ...peration of our searchlights, had been a heavy drain on The Rock's electric plant, and thus on the fuel oil and gasoline which made the electricity possible.

Gen. Moore estimated about the first of May that we would ...un out of power on Corregidor by May 29, 1942. We had already ...st one of our best men in these departments, a colonel of the Quartermaster Corps who was blown to bits while supervising ...shell repairs to the water system.

Power Plant Bombed

Our main power plant at "Bottomside"—in a valley in the middle ...f Corregidor—was bombed badly shortly after I arrived on The Rock. It was able thereafter to operate only on a fraction of its ...riginal power. For reserve dynamos we set up a patched-up Diesel ...for the Tunnel lighting, and Beebe unearthed a very small Diesel ...engine which was used as an emergency power unit for the hospital ...during all raids—which is another way of saying that it was in ...almost constant use. Even at that we had several flashlight opera...tions when hospital lights were ...arred out in the midst of tick...ish surgery on our wounded.

We built three emergency wood...en water tanks on the side of ...Malinta hill to take care of the ...hospital and the Tunnel whenever ...the main water system suffered ...a hit on a central conduit. To ...add to our discomfort, one of ...these tanks was destroyed by a ...shell.

Communications Disrupted

The Jap shelling raised havoc ...with our communications, too. All ...troop units were connected with their next headquarters by telephone. Telephone wires leading to these units and to batteries were as a rule subterranean Cables. But they had not been sunk far enough in the ground and were constantly being rooted out and broken by the shells. And we did not have enough equipment to replace the broken strands.

A day after the two Navy planes made their get-away with the 30 nurses and 20 assorted officers and civilians, I learned to my sorrow that one of the planes had struck an obstacle of some sort while landing on Mindanao's Lake Lanao. The crew worked feverishly on the ruptured hull of the flying boat but could not make proper repairs. Twenty-five persons who thought they were well on their way to liberty were marooned when the plane had to be abandoned.

The second Navy plane, unable to take on more passengers, flew on to Australia after what must have been a tragic farewell. Passengers and crew of the disabled plane were captured in the fall of Mindanao, and among these were Gen. and Mrs. Seals, Col. Wood, and a number of nurses who deserved a better fate.

Through the beginning and middle periods of April we were able to evacuate about a dozen men by means of tiny Philippine Army liaison planes, especially one flown by an intrepid Air Force major named Bill Bradford. The little two-seater planes used the island-hopping method of getting to Corregidor and sometimes brought in lightweight medical supplies. Landing on our short, crater-pocked Corregidor airstrip, especially at night when the runway could only be lighted by one of our searchlights dipping its beam suddenly along the strip, was as dangerous as the over-water flying and the Corregidor shelling.

Several important air officers escaped by this risky means, as did three war correspondents I had learned to know well. These were Clark Lee, Dean Schedler and Frank Hewlett. I shook hands and wished each of them luck before he took off. The chances of their getting through to safety were no better than 50-50.

But farewells to such friends as these could never be wordy. Lee and I just shook hands, in a kind of "See you soon" manner. Schedler said, "You should be leaving, not me," but I laughed at the notion and paraphrased Hewlett's old Bataan rhyme.

"Not me," I told Schedler, "I've been one of the 'Battling Bastards of Bataan' and I guess I'll play the same role on The Rock."

Hewlett, who had been an especially close friend, said, "Skinny, I hate to go off and leave you here, but I'll see to it at home that they know what you're doing." He did.

But by the last week of April these little mercy planes stopped coming. The Japs had taken too many of the stepping stones the planes needed to reach us.

YANK AIRMAN BURNED ALIVE

Japs Inflict Cruel Humilities, Then Shower Prisoner with Gasoline.

By The Associated Press

HANKOW, China, Oct. 23 — American intelligence officers today related a story of Japanese torture of three B-29 crewmen who were submitted to such humilities their names never may be revealed—for the sake of their relatives.

One of the fliers, almost naked, was forced to walk through Hankow's wintry streets One eye was virtually gouged out and he was showered with ice water. At the end of his miles long ordeal, he was showered with gasoline and burned alive, on orders of a Japanese military schoolmaster.

All Bodies Recovered

Two fellow B-29 crewmen also were cremated, but whether they were alive when the fires were lighted has not been determined. They were forced to make the same tortuous walk through Hankow. The fire blackened bodies of all three have been recovered.

A fourth flier, who survived the crash of the Chengtu-based B-29, was injured so seriously he was taken to a hospital and thus escaped the fate of his buddies. He is believed to have been liberated.

The incident was remembered by scores of Chinese in Hankow because the city received its worst raid of the war only two days after the public torture of the Americans. Many believed the heavy bombing was a reprisal.

Did It for Impression

Those who saw the death march said the superintendent of a Japanese-sponsored "Model Youth Corps" ordered the tortures because he wanted to make an impression on his charges.

The Japanese turned the Chinese Dah Fu bank building in Hankow into a torture and death factory. An estimated 10,000 Chinese were put through this house of torture and only about 6,000 emerged alive.

Behind the gray stone walls of the bank were the usual shock devices of the Japanese army, including equipment for the water treatment and squeeze machines for sensitive parts of the human body.

One torture instrument was used to hang a man from a beam by his thumbs in such a way that if he eased himself with his bare feet he would cut them to ribbons on broken glass.

The bank furnace was used to cremate those who did not survive.

tions. The strike, which started over a wage dispute, tied up service in seven western states.

A federal conciliator arranged a meeting with CIO union officials to attempt ending the strike of glassworkers which has closed a major part of the country's glass industry. The walkout in plants of the Libbey-Owens-Ford and the Pittsburgh Plate Glass companies followed a breakdown of company-union contract negotiations.

The third walkout in the last four months at the Crosley Corporation's manufacturing division in Cincinnati started last night as 1,200 AFL Electrical Workers quit work. A union official said the strike was a protest against the company's refusal to consider a wage increase policy.

Studios Make Appeal

In Hollywood, motion picture studios again appealed to the courts in efforts to halt mass picketing by striking movie workers. Pickets yesterday were at two new studios, RKO and Paramount, stopping almost all production at the former. Some 800 pickets formed lines at Warner Brothers and police were called as fights broke out.

250 Catholic Women Meet Here To Form Deanery Council

Six Counties Represented in Session Presided Over by Bishop Ready; Director Explains Purpose of Organization.

By EDNA B. DUTTON

Organization of a Deanery Council of Catholic Women was effected, temporary officers named and objectives and plans of the council outlined at a meeting of women of the Western Deanery of the Diocese of Columbus here yesterday afternoon. Bishop Michael J. Ready addressed the women and work of the organization was explained by Miss Margaret Kelly, field director of the National Council of Catholic Women. Hostesses for the meeting, held in Moira hall, were women of St. Mary Parish. Rev. William J. Spickerman, pastor of St. Mary church, is dean of the Western Deanery.

Approximately 250 women from the various parishes in the deanery attended the meeting for which Bishop Ready presided. Mrs. John T. McNamara of Marion was named provisional president. Miss Marguerite Getzinger of Kenton, secretary and Mrs. John Ward of Delaware, treasurer. Monsignor Joseph R. Casey, chancellor of the diocese of Columbus, is moderator. Rev. Spickerman will serve as moderator of the deanery and Marion parish council.

Bishop's Message

In expressing his wish that the women of the Western deanery unite in a council of Catholic Women, Bishop Ready emphasized the opportunity it provides in interpreting the principles of Catholicity through Catholic Action. Designating the meeting as an historic occasion, he said it also was a challenge to loyalty and devotion "to join whole-heartedly in this and we can do a great work for Christ's church." The test, he stated, is not only one of our zeal for the church, but through it we will know Catholic truths better, do things that will spell out Catholic Action and further the unity of the laity in carrying out the wishes of the founders, the archbishops and bishops of the United States. "It is a challenge," he said, "to stand by, do those works faithfully which mean the glory of the church and the glory of Jesus Christ."

Program Explained

Miss Kelly presented the practical details of the organization and outlined the process in forming councils both in the parish and deanery. The program of the parish, deanery and diocesan council is entirely subject to the wishes and direction of the bishop of the diocese. Through the national committee system of the national council, however, certain activities are suggested to the groups and from these a selection may be made, depending upon their suitability to the parish or deanery, she explained. There is no attempt made to superimpose a program, but there is opportunity offered by a comparative study to appropriate what is best for the development of each group.

Catholic Action, was defined by Miss Kelly as the laity taking part in the work of the bishops. A parish council she said, prevents duplication of effort among the organizations, puts new strength into devotional interest of the parish, and through its affiliation with the deanery and diocesan council a national picture is provided.

The National Council of Catholic Women is organized in 73 diocese of the United States and Columbus will be the 74th, Miss Kelly stated. There are 4,500 affiliated units, she stated, consisting of parish, inter-parochial diocesan societies and organizations numbering more than five million women.

Diocesan Meeting Set

Monsignor Casey announced the organization of a diocesan council Oct. 30 at Columbus, in keeping with the wishes of Bishop Ready. There will be a pontifical mass at 10 a. m. in the cathedral followed by a luncheon at 12 o'clock at the Neil House and a program in the afternoon. Deadline for reservations, which are limited, is Oct. 26. Women not wishing to attend the luncheon are invited to attend the afternoon program.

Prayer by Bishop Ready opened the meeting. The closing prayer was by Rev. Spickerman, and the group sang "Holy God We Praise Thy Name." The visiting women were guests at a dinner served in the hall following the session. Hostesses were women of the various organizations in the parish. Mrs. H. H. Cooper was chairman of the general committee. Baskets of yellow chrysanthemums and fall flowers, and yellow candles decorated the tables.

Pastors' Meeting

Pastors of the deanery met in the Parochial school earlier in the afternoon at which time ecclesiastical and present day problems were discussed. Later the group attended the organization meeting of the council. Present with Bishop Ready and Monsignor Casey were Rev. David Powers of London, Rev. John Harbrecht of West Jefferson, Rev. William Leaver of Milford Center, Rev. Henry J. Schumacher of Kenton, Rev. W. J. Meyer, C. P.S., LaRue, Rev. William O'Brien and Rev. Bennett Applegate of Delaware, Rev. J. A. Favret of Delaware, Rev. Spickerman and Rev. Edwin J. McNulty, assistant pastor of St. Mary church here.

PRESIDENT MAY ASK HIGHER WAGE LEVEL

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23—Reports circulated today that the administration may ask industry to increase pay while holding the line on prices, and unions to compromise demands for a 30 per cent hike.

President Truman, exploring cautiously all aspects of the wage-price problem, is believed to have been urged by cabinet and other advisers to try this course first.

There were signs that further discussions would be held before the White House issues any statement, and even that the whole matter might be deferred until the Labor - Management conference November 5.

Edward C. Moran Jr., Assistant Secretary of Labor, said "A very definite policy was substantially agreed to" at a White House conference he attended yesterday afternoon.

Other sources indicated there was a strong tendency to rely on government persuasion of industry to grant higher wages—perhaps 15 per cent—under terms of Mr. Truman's August 18 executive order. This removed restrictions on pay increases not involving higher prices.

It was learned that the advisory committee of the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion will see any new wage-price plan before it is made public. The committee meets next Monday.

Mr. Truman plans to confer with most of the labor-management representatives before their conference begins, said Eben Ayers, White House assistant press secretary. He said he did not know when a wage-price statement which had been expected yesterday would be forthcoming.

Present at the discussions yesterday were Secretary of the Navy Forrestal, who is preparing to return to private operation a number of oil refineries seized as the result of a labor dispute; Secretary of the Treasury Fred M. Vinson; Secretary of Agriculture Anderson; Price Administrator Chester Bowles; Economic Stabilizer John Caskie Collet; Edwin Witte, public member of the War Labor board, and Moran, who represented Secretary Schwellenbach.

2 WOMEN HURT BY GALION HIT-SKIPPER

Special to The Star

GALION, Oct. 23—A hit-skip motorist injured two pedestrians in Galion early Monday morning, according to a police report, and the driver had not been apprehended late Monday.

Mrs. Hazel Myers, Route 6, Mansfield, and Miss Pauline Poole, 22, of the same address, were slightly injured. They were crossing Harding Way East near Liberty street, to their car which was parked in front of the Old Corner restaurant when another car crashed the red light going west, and struck the pedestrians.

Miss Poole was knocked to the street and suffered an injured nose, left leg and body bruises. Her clothing was torn. Mrs. Myers who operated the Midway filling station, east of Galion, had an injured left leg and the impact knocked her shoe from her foot. Her son, Blair, 18, was waiting in the car for the two women. Witnesses of the accident were James Kelly and Keith Johnson, both of Galion, and Richard Heller and Robert Burling, both of Bucyrus.

It was reported that several young men were in the hit-skip car, and that they were driving at an excessive rate of speed.

Russian - Turkish Dispute Rises As Troops Maneuver

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

There are the makings of another dangerous upheaval in the Balkans.

Freshly arrived Russian troops, with tanks and artillery, are "maneuvering" in southern Bulgaria near the Turkish border. Reliable estimates place the Red military force in Bulgaria at 200,000. The Bulgarian army is being reorganized under the tutelage of Russian training staffs, and has the appearance of being an auxiliary to the Soviet force.

Why all this military activity? Well, the answer must be a guess, but we don't have to look far for a likely answer.

As I read the signs, the dispute between Moscow and Turkey over (1) control of the Dardanelles and (2) the territorial concessions which the Soviet wants in Turkish Armenia, seems to be coming to a head. The stakes are vast, and both sides are packing guns—precautionary, probably, but none the less suggestive.

The status of the Dardanelles is of the utmost importance to Russia. This narrow strait (the one Leander used to swim nightly to visit his true love) is the gateway leading from the Black sea into the Aegean and the Mediterranean. That is, it's Russia's only exit from the Black sea and without free use of this passage, Moscow cannot make good its apparent ambition to become a Mediterranean power.

Under Turkish Control

The way things now stands, Turkey controls the Dardanelles under the so-called Montreaux convention of 1936—signed by Bulgaria, France, Britain, Greece, Japan, Romania, Turkey, Russia and Yugoslavia. This treaty permitted Turkey to remilitarize the strait. Freedom of passage for other nations was recognized, excepting that Turkey could close the Dardanelles if she was at war or was threatened by war.

The Montreaux convention didn't trouble Russia at the time of its signing, but it has become a mighty matter now that she is the dominant power of that part of the world and wants free access to the Mediterranean. Thus it came about that at the last meeting of the Big Three at Potsdam the Soviet asked for a revision of the Montreaux convention. President Truman stood for an international commission to control the strait—and there the matter still rests. The Turks naturally won't cotton to the idea much, and hold that the convention would have to be altered by the same countries which established it.

Reds Claim Area

To add fuel to the fire, another question developed between Moscow and Ankara. The Soviet union claims the Kars, Ardahan and Artvin districts of Turkish Armenia. These are in the northeast corner of Asiatic Turkey, at the southeastern end of the Black sea, and lie against the frontiers of the Soviet republics of Georgia and Armenia. The three districts were ceded to Turkey by Russia in 1921, as a good will gesture. They now have a strategic value which makes them valuable to Russia.

The Turkish press has been blunt in declaring that Ankara will refuse to give up these districts. The Turks are tough and probably mean what they say. Whether they could back up what they say, or would try to, is quite another question.

In any event, the indications are that Russia is going to demand an early settlement of both these questions. Bulgaria of course will stand solidly with Russia. The Sofia provisional government—which is still unrecognized by the United States and Britain, who maintain that it doesn't represent the whole country—is heavily communistic.

CONGRESS DIVIDED ON DRAFT PROPOSAL

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23—President Truman's recommendation for a year's military training for young men got a divided reception in congress ttoday.

There was disagreement with his statement that the universal training program he proposed "is not conscription."

House Democratic leaders declined to comment immediately but indicated pessimism over the legislative prospects for the plan.

There was approval, even among the opponents of his proposal, for some aspects of his plan.

Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo), acting chairman of the senate military affairs committee, told reporters he regarded the program as nothing less than conscription, to which he is opposed.

But Johnson was pleased that the President had recommended that trainees should not be subject to military duty until they are picked by selective service on the order of congress.

Senator Hill (D-Ala): "The President's plan merits the most sympathetic and friendly consideration of the congress. It is what General Marshall urged."

Senator Austin (R-Vt): "I think this principle is sound. It may be possible to spread the training period over four years instead of one and get even better preparation for national defense.

Rep. Walter G. Andrews of New York, top-ranking Republican on the house military committee: "I am in favor of the program."

Senator Butler (R-Neb): "I'm not for taking a youngster entirely out of his normal mode of life. I'm for such military training as he can get in colleges and high schools."

Senator Hart (R-Conn): "I'm wholly in agreement."

Senator Russell (D-Ga) said he also favored peacetime universal training but thought the age should "be 17 to 23 years to allow more leeway."

State, District Masonic Officers at Prospect Meeting.

Special to The Star

PROSPECT, Oct. 23—The seventy-fifth anniversary of Prospect Lodge No. 444, F. and A. M., was observed last night with a dinner served by women of the Eastern Star at the Prospect school, and a program. State and district officers took part and approximately 100 attended.

Fifty-year members present were John Earick of Prospect, George N. Davis and W. P. Penry of Radnor and John H. Treese of Richwood. For the dinner Miss Alice Anson played accordion music and following dinner Rev. J. R. Wynd of the Methodist church gave a short talk. Donald Hirkman presided.

The group moved to the lodge room where the master Mason's degree was conferred and talks were given by Paul Reed and James Harbage, state officials, and Andrew White, district lecturer, all of Columbus. Guests were there from Columbus, Delaware, Marion, Richwood and Waldo. The committee in charge of arrangements included Harry Gast, William Griffith and Harold Hedges.

The original Pony Express lasted only 16 months—until the telegraph line from the East was extended into California in 1861.

Highlights of Truman's Address To Congress on Draft Proposa

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—Highlights in President Truman's address to congress today on universal military training:

* * *

For years to come the success of our efforts for a just a... lasting peace will depend upon the strength of those who a... determined to maintain the peace.

* * *

We intend to use all our moral influence and all our physi... strength to work for that kind of peace. . . . We must face ... fact that peace must be built upon power, as well as upon g... will and good deeds.

The latent strength of our untrained citizenry is no longer sufficient protection. * * * Never again can we count on the luxury of time with which to arm ourselves.

* * *

We can meet the need for a trained reserve in only one way —by universal training.

* * *

Universal training is the only means by which we can be prepared right at the start to throw our great energy and our tremendous force into the battle.

* * *

I recommend that we create a postwar military organization which will contain the following basic elements: First — A comparatively small regular Army, Navy and Marine Corps; second —a greatly strengthened National Guard and organized reserve for the Army, Navy and Marine Corps; third—a general reserve composed of all the male citizens of the United States who have received training.

* * *

Universal military training is not conscription. * * * "Conscription" is compulsory service in the Army or Navy in time of peace or war. Trainees under this proposed legislation, however, * * * would be civilians in training.

The great difference betwe... having universal training and ... training, however, is that ... time of emergency, those w... would be selected for actua... military service would alread... have been basically trained. * * ... military service during the war.

His program would provide that after a few months' training, youths who are physically unqualified for military service would receive training "in certain skills so that if war came, they could take their places in shipyards, munitions factories and similar industrial plants."

Commissions would be granted to qualified men who complete the course of training and who then take additional instruction in officer candidate schools, in the Reserve Officers' Training Corps or Naval Reserve Officers' Training Corps.

Outstanding trainees, Mr. Truman said, could be selected after a period of training and sent to college with government financial aid. They would be required, however, to return after graduation to serve as junior officers for a year or more of additional training or service.

Subject To Change

He suggested that if conditions change, the program could be re-examined and revalued. At the present, he said, the nation has the necessary organization, the required camp installations, and the essential equipment and training grounds immediately available.

"Once we disband and scatter this setup," he declared, "it will be much harder and more expensive to re-establish the necessary facilities."

He challenged those who argue that "compulsory training violates traditional American concepts of liberty and democracy, and even that it would endanger our system of government by creating a powerful militar... caste." He said the purpose ... the program "is just the contrar... and that "will have just the co... trary result."

"A large trained reserve ... peace-loving citizens would ne... go to war or encourage war, if ... could be avoided," he co... tended.

"Until we are sure that o... peace machinery is functioni... adequately, we must relentless... preserve our superiority on la... and sea and in the air," Mr. Tru... man said. * * * Research, ne... materials, and new weapons w... never, by themselves, be s... ficient to withstand a power... enemy. Belgian Artist, Wed to Native Finds Happiness in Bali Life

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Writer

DENPASAR, BALI — The old Belgian painter gazed out into his garden by the sea, where Balinese drums throbbed a native dance tempo.

From the garden, stone idols of forgotten Hindu gods stared back at him.

"The time is passing—passing," mused the painter, 66-year old Adrian Jean Le Mayeur.

"I cannot believe it has been 14 years since I came to this island. My life has been a happy dream here."

Then a shadow crossed the old man's face.

"All except the last four years. They have been a nightmare."

By his life Le Mayeur has proved two things—that educated man can forego the "civilized" world and be happy, and that love can show the way for east to meet west.

Find Real Happiness

He and his native Balinese wife for a decade have known happiness enjoyed by few couples anywhere. They have built a home that is a true temple of beauty.

Le Mayeur was 52 years old and a successful Brussels artist when he came to Bali on a world tour through strange lands to find subjects for his paint brush.

"I knew at once that Bali would be my life," said the artist.

His first model was a 16-year old Balinese dancing girl named Pollok. He fell in love with her but had to court her for four years before she agreed to marry him. She was poor and had much to gain by marrying him, but held off because she wasn't sure she would be happy married to a European.

Coconut Was Dowry

"Her dowry was a coconut," said Le Mayeur, looking fondly at his golden skinned wife as she poured tea. "For 14 years she has been my mother and model—and for 10 happy years my wife."

At 30, she is still slim, graceful and beautiful.

"I have never regretted the years I have spent here," said Le Mayeur.

During the Japanese occupation, Le Mayeur ran out of paint and canvas and he has had to make his sketches on native fiber sheets.

For three years the Japanese left Le Mayeur and Pollok alone, but then forced them to move into the interior of the island. The excuse was that light shone at night from the artist's home and might serve as a beacon for Allied bombers. For six unhappy months, they were exiled from their seaside home and garden.

"Our only fear was that we would be divided," said Le Mayeur. "That was the only time my wife ever cried. She loves this house. It is us. It is our life—a happy house, a happy life."
